KINDERGARTENERS GRADUATE from school too: Kindergarteners at Carmel River School held graduation ceremonies in the all-purpose room, complete with "cap" and diplomas, and cupcakes and juice following the SRO ceremony. Among the happy grads were: Ursula Anderson and Chelsea Campbell (above), picking out their cupcakes; Daniel

Carmel man honored for his effort in championing cause of First Amendment rights

By DAVID LELAND

AFTER MORE than 40 years of leading a somewhat Kafkaesque existence, Richard Criley has attained validation for literary work detailing his years as a target of an ongoing FBI investigation.

At 79, Criley, who was on hand in 1916 for the founding of Carmel, is one of 23 authors worldwide awarded the Free Expression Award for his literary prowess.

"I think an award which goes to so few people is always going to be a surprise," said Criley, referring to his book for The FBI v. The First Amendment. "While I've been a writer all my life, this is the first book I have written."

The FBI v. The First Amendment tells the story of a group of civil libertarians who took on the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and the ensuing 15 years when the FBI constructed a 130,000-page dossier on the group.

"The book was to remind Americans that we (USA) too have a secret police who have gone after people and their opinions," said Criley, who sifted the FBI dossier into an informative 80-page manuscript. "This is the first book written by someone targeted by an agency."

The Fund for Free Expression, which monitors and fights censorship worldwide, donated a total of $195,000 for the awards from the estates of Lillian Hellman and Dashiell Hammett.

Each author received $10,000.

"Lillian Hellman would have been delighted by these awards," said writer/estate executor John Hersey. "She and Hammett waged a lifelong battle against exactly the sorts of political repression and censorship that turn up in the moving case histories of these courageous writers."

awards were nominated by groups and individuals concerned with literary freedom, and selected by a five-member committee drawn from the board of the Fund For Free Expression.

In addition to four winners from the United States, other awardees hailed from diverse cultures as Burma, Turkey, Togo, Egypt, Argentina and Iran. Some honorees remained anonymous because they feared of retaliation from their government.

For Criley, the journey into fear, repression and an invaded privacy began in earnest when a newspaper article appeared in the Chicago Tribune naming then-First Lieutenant Criley as having Communist Party links along with mystery writer Hammett.

"The implication was that people like me and Dashiell Hammett were trying to take over the armed forces," said Criley, adding that the FBI actually leaked the information to the news media, including the armed forces publication Stars and Stripes.

This, however, was not his first brush with the FBI; the agency had begun keeping Criley under surveillance after he helped organize a free speech strike at UC Berkeley in 1934.

It was after organizing the protest that Criley saw the "dark" side of the FBI, and how J. Edgar Hoover's agency could affect an ordinary citizen's existence.

Born in Paris, the son of an artist and intellectual mother, Criley was first harassed by the FBI when it attempted to have him deported as a undesirable alien.

"The FBI started a file on me but they lost me," says Criley, referring to the years following The Depression when he served in a Carmel club sponsored Lincoln Steffens and his wife, Ella Winter, which provided a platform for striking longshoremen and other controversial speakers.

The student strike in Berkeley, however, proved to be a turning point in Criley's life as he gave up his

Thinking calmly

Dear Editor:

The conflict and anger so evident at the June 4 City Council meeting was the unfortunate consequence of Mayor Grace's forgetting that she is one of five equal council members, each with an equal vote.

An even greater contribution to the bad temper of that meeting was the mayor's effort to change the long-established and previously successful procedure by which appointments have been made to the several city commissions.

The procedure for commission appointments, which Mayor Grace by her own statements has endorsed, has been for each council member to advise the mayor how he or she feels about each nominee. After hearing from all the council members, the mayor knows whether or not that nomination will have a majority to allow confirmation. This traditional procedure has avoided public confrontation.

In recent weeks, the mayor has sought to change this traditional procedure. Three times she has proposed candidates for the Carmel Planning Commission. The second name in fact never formally came to the council's attention because that nominee was judged by the city attorney to be legally ineligible. With the other two candidates, the mayor learned that neither would be confirmed - and yet she was not willing to accept that reality.

Instead of seeking compromise candidates, Mayor Grace chose to drag the disagreement through the press and then to have a public vote and confrontation at the council meeting. We believe she should have fulfilled her leadership responsibility by working with her council to agree on compromise candidates.

To justify her plight, the mayor has used the Brown Act as an excuse for turning the nominating process into a media event which included at the June 4th council meeting prepared speeches by her nominees and supporters. In fact, injection of the Brown Act into this controversy is a diversion - a red herring. The city attorney has ruled that there is NO violation resulting from council members advising the mayor about how they feel.

In truth, the mayor has never before worried about Brown Act violations in connection with the appointment process. As to the argument offered by the mayor's defenders (that the council should accept her nominees), we believe that the council majority is acting within its traditional, rightful and legal role. Each member of the council was elected by a majority of Carmel voters and is obligated to represent the interests of those citizens.

Doesn't it make good sense to seek a balance on the planning commission - a balance between those who are financially identified with development and/or real estate sales and those who clearly have no such financial connection?

If Mayor Grace has her way and appoints another person who is development-oriented, then the seven-member commission would have four members (a majority), who are associated with the development/real estate industry, two members who are tied to commercial interests and a sole member "at large." Why should there not be a second planning commissioner who clearly has no financial ax to grind? Surely the mayor's allies are not limited only to developers and realtors. Surely there must be many citizens of Carmel who would readily receive the support of all the city council. Why not end the controversy by nominating such a person?

Finally, in considering Mayor Grace's criticism of council members who have sought to maintain the established appointment procedure, it is right for us to recall what she said in her re-election brochure: "... we must listen to each other, debate with civility, think through alternatives, and then have the courage to make difficult decisions."

Not raw politics

Dear Editor:

The intensely emotional debate at the meeting of the Carmel City Council on June 4th should not obscure the fundamental issues at hand. The issues have been obscured by Mayor Jean Grace, by her supporters, and by the editorial in the Pine Cone on June 6.

The major issues are twofold. First, the mayor, by virtue of the authority vested in her office, has the right to nominate a person.

In the interest of good government, however, the person nominated should be one who provides for a balanced commission that the broad interests of the community may be considered. Second, in the consideration of any nomination by the mayor, the city council acts as an advise-and-consent body.

Mayor Grace had been given prior advice as to the type of candidates preferred by the majority members of the city council for positions on the Carmel Planning Commission and Beach and Forest Commission. The majority's position for nomination and appointment to the planning commission was stated by Councilman Jim Wright, as follows: "We should have representatives from various interests in the community, including residents who have no financial interest in commercial business."

Mayor Grace did not accept this advice and the council exercised its prerogative by rejecting her nominee for the planning commission, Mr. D'Isidoro. Her nominee for the beach and forestry commission, Mr. Kremer, was also rejected. None of this reflects unfavorably on Mr. D'Isidoro or Mr. Kremer who, I am told, both enjoy excellent reputations in the community.

The above recounting is not "raw politics," a term used pejoratively by Lindsay Hanna. The democratic system works by advise-and-consent from all segments of society. It does not work by vitriol, threats, insults, and distortions.

Credit where it is due

Dear Editor:

In his June 4th article in the Pine Cone, David Leland stated that the CRA had played a lead role in seeking to gain the preservation of the "First Murphy." Because credit should be given where earned, we want to make clear that it was Carmel Heritage which presented the arguments in favor of saving this symbol of Carmel's early years. Their efforts prevented the destruction of that building. In fact, the CRA was not involved in that preservation effort.

As to the controversy regarding what is now known as the First Murphy Park, it may be clarifying to recall that because the First Murphy needed a public site where it could be placed, restored and made a useful part of community life, the Carmel city council decided to place that building on one of two city-owned lots and to develop an adjacent lot so as to create a new public park for Carmel. Thus the park has come into being as a consequence of finding a suitable place for the First Murphy.

Take another look

Dear Editor:

One item on the Carmel City Council's June 4th agenda that demands public attention is the council's award of the city's legal advertising to the Weekly Sun away from the Pine Cone I was shocked at this action and wonder why it happened. No public explanation was made during the meeting.

On the one hand, the council forms endless committees to talk about how to get residents to support local businesses. But actions speak louder than words. And while the Sun is a good newspaper, selecting an out-of-town business over a few dollars isn't good public policy nor a good example to others.

Not too long ago, the council awarded another service contract to a local business which was not the low bidder. The council considered the quality of the service, convenience and other non-financial aspects of the bids. And since there is no requirement to select the low bid, the council made the right decision. That same logic should have prevailed here.

Thus, while the Sun's bid was approximately 1 percent less than the Pine Cone's, the council should have exercised its discretion to support a local business. Firms which are located in the city, pay city taxes and support the city's economy deserve support. It angers me that some council members urge residents to buy local, yet they vote to do just the opposite with our money.

On the other hand, maybe the Pine Cone's editorial views have angered some in City Hall. But if that kind of pettiness was a factor in this decision, it only further illustrates what a mess our city is in. In the end, I suspect it never pays to bite the hand that feeds you. So if the council wonders why local businesses feel the way they do towards City Hall, they need only take another look at their own decisions.

Shameful actions

Dear Editor:

After reading your editorial of June 6 titled, "A slap in the face," I wondered if I had stepped through the looking glass. Surely, the mayor's shameful actions at the June 4 city council meeting should have been held up to closer scrutiny by the local newspaper. She attempted to railroad the appointment of two businessmen to two commission openings, despite being advised in advance that nominees who more closely represent the interests of the people who live in Carmel were preferred.

The three council members who rejected her would-be appointees are known to be tuned to the wishes of the residents of the city - not the commercial interests - and this infuriates Mayor Grace and her loud clique of supporters from the business community.

It was she, not the council majority, who showed "wanton disrespect and disregard for...residents" of Carmel. It was her actions, not the actions of the council majority that were "transparently vindictive and unforgivable."

Lest we forget, it has been traditional for mayors of cities throughout California to nominate appointees for various boards and commissions and submit them for the approval and consent of the city council. It certainly has been a tradition in Carmel since its founding.

(The one notable exception that comes to mind was the post-election "massacre" in 1986 when newly elected Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood fired the entire planning commission, in total disregard of all past practice. He then proceeded to "pack" the important planning body with business/commercial-minded appointees who supported his agenda to launch a massive attack on the zoning laws that had protected the fragile charms of Carmel for so many years. The same voices that criticize the present council majority for politely turning down the mayor's nominees were jubilant at Eastwood's unprecedented action.)

I was disturbed by the "warnings" from harsh critics at the June 4 council meeting that the "day of reckoning" will somehow come next spring when the voters elect two council members and a new mayor.

These empty threats did not constitute a problem to those council and mayoral aspirants who reflect the wishes of the residents of the village. Throughout its history, the voters have shown the good sense to elect council members who reflected their concerns rather than the narrow interests of greedy business people.

What is disturbing is the bullying tactics used by the mayor and her

Grassroots effort underway to help schools

By DAVID LELAND

LED BY local restaurateur Mike Jones, a grassroots effort is underway to coax citizens into donating $80 annually for capital improvements for Carmel schools.

The move is in reaction to the failing of Measure A, a parcel tax which would have raised about $3.5 million for local schools in four years, in the June 4 election.

"It's pretty encouraging," said Jones, referring to checks totalling $2,000 that had been donated. "Fifty percent of the people donating voted 'No' on the measure."

Jones, who is working in concert with partner Jack Silver, said he believes that most of the people contributing are doing so because they are confident that the money will not be eaten up by administrative fees.

"I will make sure it goes to capital improvements, only," said Jones, who is offering a free Sunday brunch at Silver Jones Restaurant in The Barnyard to those pledging $80 for a period of four years.

Joining Jones in making donations are Ventana Vineyards, which is giving a bottle of wine to those that visit the winery and a free bottle of champagne for the Sunday brunch; and Earth Bound Farms, which is including fresh herbs for salads at Silver Jones.

Jones is such a good salesman, that he convinced Santa Cruz resident Jeff Cohen, who is also owner of Odwalla juices, to kick in $80.

"I'm as mad as hell and I'm not going to take it," said Jones, stealing a line of dialog from the hit movie Network. Jones is also seeking contributions from area teachers.

Also, at its last board of directors meeting, the Carmel Business Association voted to encourage its membership to contribute to the cause.

'It's pretty encouraging. Fifty percent of the people donating voted 'No' on the measure.'

— Michael Jones

according to Toni Jepson, executive director.

However, Carmel Unified School District administrators say that there is a process that must be set up to receive and administer the funds.

To that end, a meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 18, at Carmel Middle School.

Already facing a $100,000 deficit in its tentative budget, it is certain that without assistance, much needed capital improvements will slowly deplete the district's coffers.

"I think there will be some items that we cannot postpone another year," said Vance Baldwin, assistant superintendent, referring to the purchase of two new school buses, which could cost the district as much as $240,000.

'We'll be able to get by this next year OK. It's the year after I'm concerned about.'

— Vance Baldwin

Baldwin, who will take over the helm from Supt. Bob Infelise this August, said mounting capital outlays will likely have a snowball affect on the district.

"We'll be able to get by this next year OK," he said, adding that putting off expenses will likely result in higher costs. "It's the year after I'm concerned about."

Infelise said he too was concerned about keeping positive revenues flowing.

"If we start looking at spending $3.5 million (the total of Measure A), over three or four years, we're looking at deficit spending," he said.

CPR classes being offered

CPR SAVES more than 250 lives a day; The more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly throughout the year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver.

Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion. For more information call the Red Cross at 24-692 1.

Water budget seeks $2.4 million for desalination plant

By FRANK GEORGE

IT LOOKS like the peninsula's water board — often maligned as a "do-nothing" board — is finally doing something.

At least that's what Director Ken Long contends, as the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board of directors opted Monday to look at a budget, which, among other things, asks for $2.4 million for planning a desalination plant.

The lone objection to the plan came from Director and 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who called the plan "a gamble" because the public may not approve the selling of municipal bonds to pay for such a project. She pointed out the concept of a dam on the Carmel River had gained popular support in an election several years ago, but the concept of a desalination plant has not been brought before the voters.

Whether constituents like the plan or not, Director Jim Hughes said the study money would be well spent since much can be learned about desalination in the process. The knowledge could then be set aside for future reference when better desalination technology becomes available, Hughes said.

Despite Strasser Kauffman's concerns, the board will include the study in the district's $7 million 1991-92 budget, which the board can approve or deny at its June 24 meeting. The decision to move forward with the budget was made at a June 10 study session at the district office on El Dorado Street in Monterey.

Also at this meeting, Jim Cofer, district general manager, said another 1,000-acre-foot Seaside well might be in the works. Cofer said if the existing well on Peralta Avenue (which is slated for completion this summer), proves to be successful, a second well in the area could be

MST bus service restored for Carmel Point

WHILE MONTEREY-SALINAS Transit has stopped short of actually restoring Route 5 in name, the route which served Carmel Point residents for more than two decades will again ferry passengers from that area beginning this weekend.

At 7:33 a.m. Saturday, June 14, Route 4 will begin operation on an interim basis on the previous Route No. 5.

The route runs from downtown Carmel to Carmelo and Santa Lucia.

The MST move appears to be the result of a February Carmel City Council meeting when angry residents spoke out against the cancellation of the route. After hearing testimony, the council forwarded tapes of the meeting to MST representatives.

Route 4 begins in Monterey and travels to the mouth of the valley before moving to Carmel Point.

Service from Carmelo to downtown Carmel will occur at about 35 minutes past the hour between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Valley school a saving grace for some students

By SUSAN BECK

MEGAN REDELSPERGER's dyslexia was a problem in the traditional school system, but it won't keep her from graduating from Carmel Valley High School Friday, June 19.

Josh Kelsey found regular school like a prison. Recently he's learned that much-needed freedom has helped give him the discipline he had lacked.

Then there's Eric Lancaster, who's also bucked authority in the past, but at least now feels he gets the attention he needs.

To these three, Carmel Valley High turned out to be their saving grace. Located on the semi-rural Schulte Road in mid-Carmel Valley and under the jurisdiction of the Carmel Unified School District, the alternative high school provides a setting for 45 students who have a good chance at succeeding where they might have otherwise fallen through the cracks.

The curriculum is based on a continuing education concept, with the goal of creating an open and trusting environment for learning, instilling motivation and developing skills.

The main feature of the school's approach is one-on-one instruction, and the chance to pursue individual interests. The freedom that implies doesn't mean students get an easy ride.

"A non-structured environment demands a lot of maturity," said Principal Blake Fuessenich. "Students can work at their own pace — as slow as they need to, or as fast as they are able."

The method is proven and the motivation apparent, as the school boasts a respectable record: about 95 percent of its students graduate. The average student completes two years of high school work in one to one and a half years.

Artana Decarlo, who is about to graduate, completed two-and-a-half years of high school credits in nine months. "The school lets the individual focus on what they are interested in, rather than being molded into a set standard."

Decarlo was able to pursue her interests in fine arts and drama. At Carmel High School, on the other hand, there is a waiting list to get into art classes, and this year drama instruction was abandoned altogether.

"Because of the excellent teachers, which every school should have, but don't, and their individual care, I could stay fresh, not bogged down like in the regular educational system," said Decarlo. "Students who feel that high school seems wrong to them or they can't deal with school and want to drop out—should come down to Valley. It's a lot better school because there's more compassion and kindness. Everybody overall is a lot happier," said Decarlo.

One such teacher, Jeanne Fletcher, has taught at Carmel Valley High for the past six years.

"I like the simplicity of our basic rule: to treat one another as we would like to be treated," she said. "I like to be myself and teach what I am most excited about."

It's not surprising that where citizenship is so highly esteemed, principal Fuessenich maintains that "It is the people who make the school, not the curriculum."

But the content of each student's education is carefully considered.

Basic subjects are taught at Carmel Valley High. But because the students work individually rather than strictly in classes, they are able to create their own focus of study, tailored to their interests. For instance, a student can choose to study European instead of American history.

The school works on a point system. Fifteen hours and 15 points a week are the minimum requirement to attend school. Most of the students, who are able to bring with them existing credits from their previous schools, are juniors and seniors.

It takes 2,300 points and passing district competency examinations to graduate.

The endeavor to work toward a high school degree is completely voluntary, said Fuessenich. "Many students are at risk of getting into trouble or dropping out of school when they decide to attend. We can work with anyone who is willing to try. We promote acceptance and support. It's almost a therapeutic environment."

If current trends continue, alternative schools will be more in demand because the peninsula lacks such resources as counseling clinics, runaway shelters and all services that help with the adjustment from the school to the work place.

The larger, traditional schools should include more opportunities for independent study, more incentive programs, early college admission and one-on-one teaching, said Fuessenich.

"We need to make an investment now to save money in the future."

One committed Carmel Valley family is investing in the alternative high school.

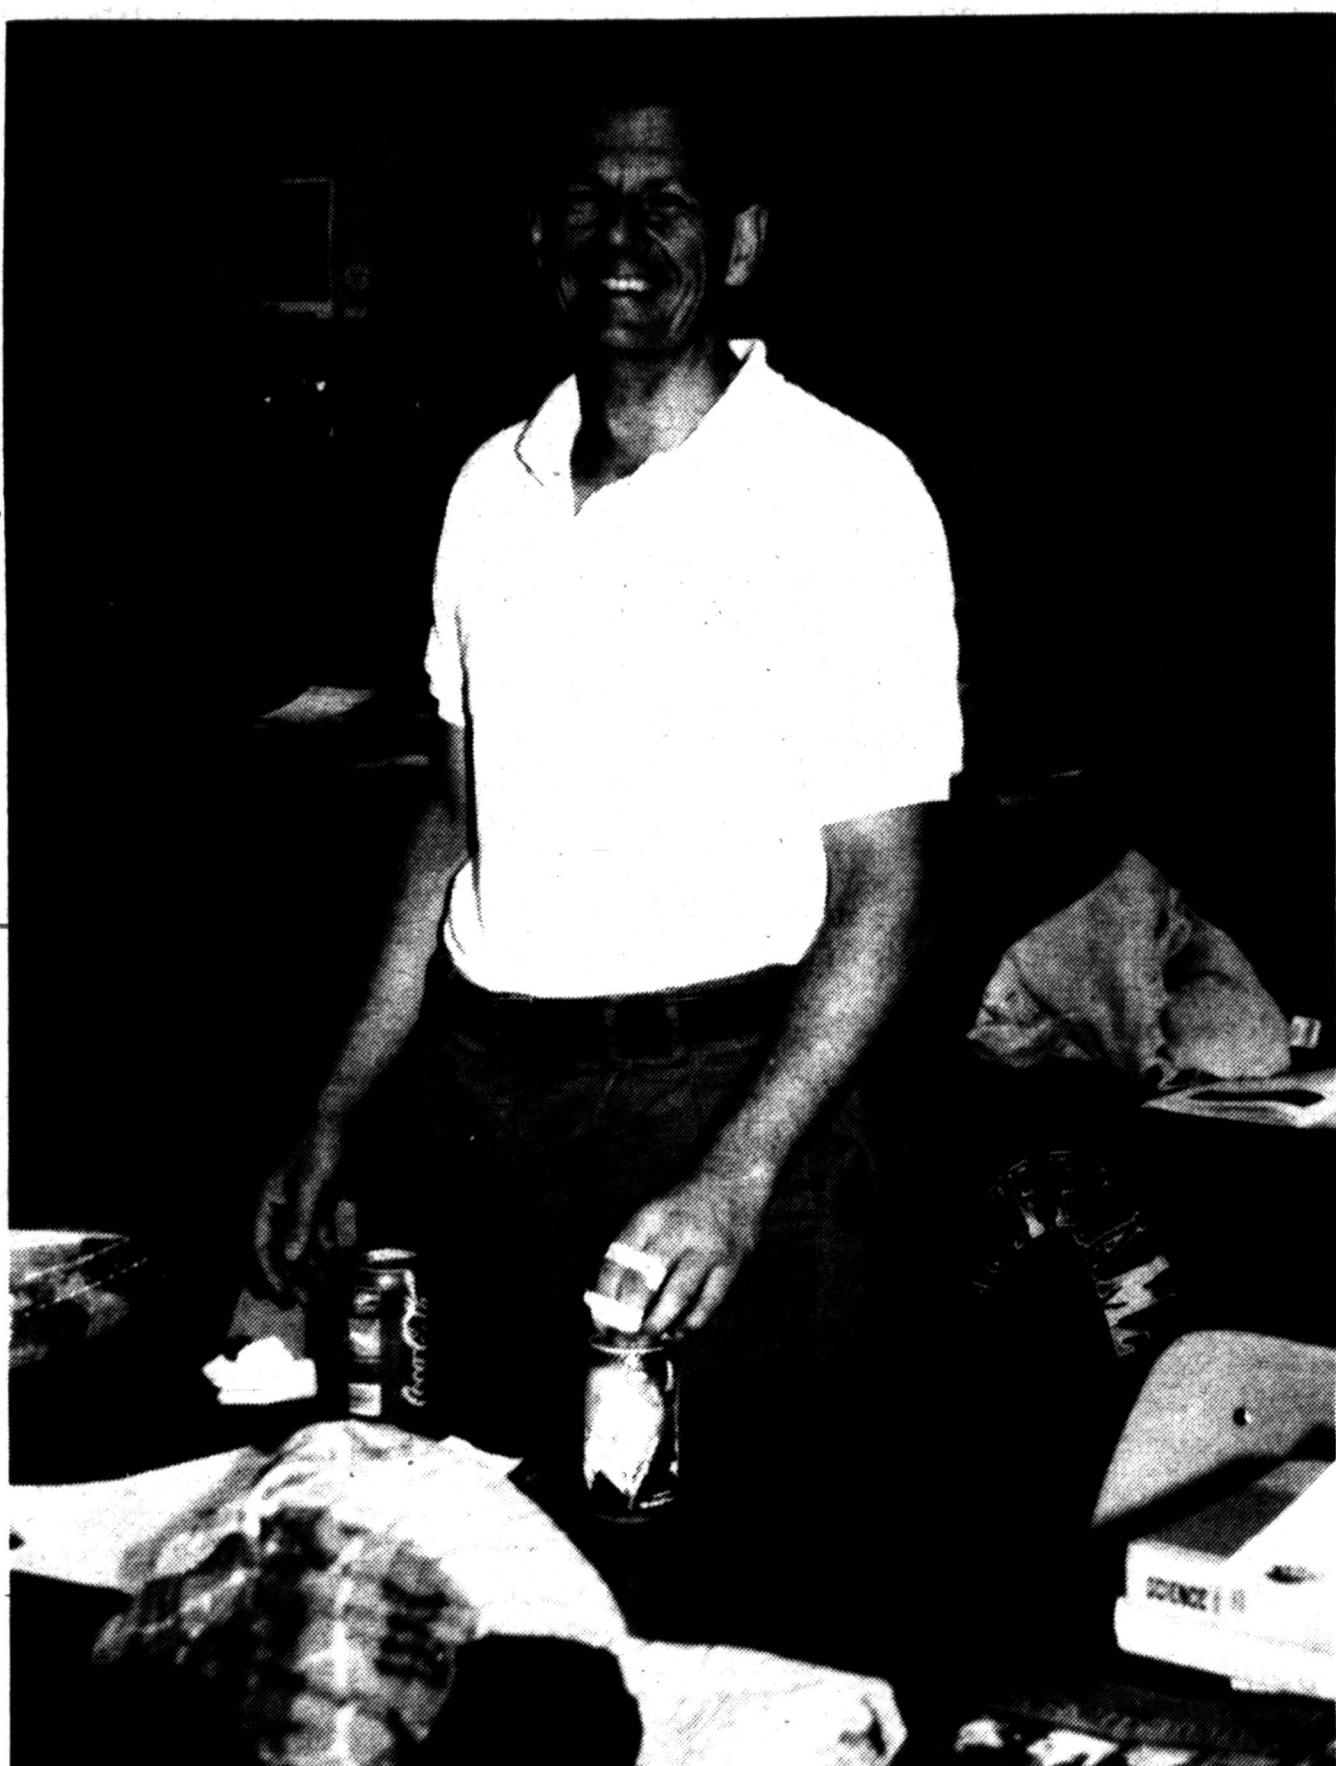

Decarlo's mother, Ronni Sloan, who has long felt that Carmel Valley High offers a higher quality education, 12 years ago encouraged her niece, Vali Cook, to attend the school. Cook had been out of school for one year.

Cook took her aunt's advice and set a goal to graduate with Carmel High School's Class of 1980. She succeeded, completing two and a half years in one year's time.

Shortly after graduating, Cook died in an automobile accident and her mother, Sherry Cook, set up the Vali Cook Scholarship Fund.

"She achieved her goal," said Sloan, "and I was thrilled with the change and confidence it gave her. I would like to see more community interest and support for non-mainstream kids who have a tremendous amount to offer back to society."

BLAKE FUESSENICH, the principal at Carmel Valley High School, believes that there is a need for more individual schools emphasizing specific interests for non-traditional students.

academic career and made a life-long commitment to social activism. He helped found the American Student Union, the leading activist organization of the period.

During the ensuing years, as the American labor movement was transformed into a dynamic force, Criley tried his hand as a union organizer in the fruit and vegetable canneries of the Santa Clara Valley.

When World War II ended, Criley found a job in the giant Swift packing plant in the Chicago Union Stockyards. The FBI, which had tracked him to Chicago, intervened to get him fired and blacklisted with the participation of a rightwing faction in the union.

As part of its neutralization operation, the FBI insured that Criley's expulsion from the local union as a "red" received nationwide news coverage.

During the McCarthy era, Criley reached the conclusion that the only effective way to defend civil liberties was to create a broad and representative coalition.

His principal goal: to abolish the House on Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC).

"Unlike other committees of Congress, HUAC's main aim was not the legislative purpose mandated by the Constitution, but the ideological mission of inculcating anti-Communism and chilling dissent," writes Criley in his book. "Its legislative accomplishments, while limited, included sponsorship or support for a series of federal laws which punish ideological speech and advocacy, rather than violent, fraudulent, or corrupt conduct."

Criley, working with other civil libertarians, in 1960 formed the National Committee Against Repressive Legislation (NCARL).

In addition to appearing before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee three times and twice before HUAC, the FBI stepped up its secret investigation against Criley and his associates.

During that time the FBI also employed undercover informers, placed wiretaps, utilized "goons" to break up events, and spent millions of the taxpayers' dollars.

"They were moving heaven and earth to disband us," said Criley, who lives in Carmel Highlands with wife Jan Berry.

As Americans who believed in their constitutional rights, Criley said they thought the disruptions were just a sign of the times.

"We took it for granted that it was a rotten era," he said. "We didn't know it was the FBI."

In his book, Criley reveals that FBI papers tell ignoring a tip that an anti-HUAC leader was going to be assassinated.

Fodder for Criley's book is the product of a successful American Civil Liberties Union lawsuit that forced the FBI to release its NCARL files.

As the lawsuit neared settlement in 1980 Criley let it be known that he planned to publish the story of the FBI's war on this legislatively oriented civil liberties group as a case history of FBI abuses of the First Amendment.

However, claiming that the publication violated the protective order set by the court, the FBI ordered that the work be stopped, and threatened to jail all connected with the book for contempt of court.

After four months of further litigation, the court ruled that the FBI's objections were "nonsensical" and without merit. Thus the book can be described as "the book the FBI does not want you to read."

Criley said he donated his $10,000 award to the NCARL, which will stage a conference supporting expanded First Amendment legislation in Washington, D.C. this October.

"I really wrote the book to lay groundwork for a nationwide campaign," said Criley, who, in 1985, received the Earl Warren Civil Liberties Award.

Specifically, the NCARL is backing a bill by Rep. Don Edwards (San Jose), "FBI First Amendment Protection Act," that calls for the FBI to investigate only criminal acts, rather than First Amendment actions.

Criley, who for the past 13 years has served as chairperson or executive director of the Monterey Chapter of the ACLU, is touring the country to publicize his book.

News notes:

CV service station decision delayed

THE MONTEREY County Planning Commission continued a hearing on Wednesday that was to address an application for a food mart, six fuel dispensers and car wash at the site of the vacant Arco Station on Rio Road.

Planning officials said that the environmental health department had not had sufficient time to address the issue of toxic waste from the application, brought forth by the Carmel Properties Co.

While the planning department staff recommended the adoption of a negative declaration in its report, nearby residents have indicated complaints concerning the sale of liquor and noise levels.

The planning staff is recommending that the car wash operate only 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday to eliminate noise at residences only 100 feet away.

A traffic study by DKS Associates for the area found that traffic impacts would be minimal.

Offshore oil ban extended one year

THE HOUSE Appropriations Subcommittee on Interior approved June

6, a one-year extension of the current moratorium all new offshore oil and gas leasing activities off the California coast. Rep. Leon E. Panetta is the author of the moratorium.

It has been in effect almost without interruption since 1981, when then-Secretary of the Interior James Watt first proposed wholesale leasing along the California coast.

The Bush Administration is currently targeting 87 tracts off the coasts of Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo Counties for oil and gas leasing in 1996.

There was no separate subcommittee vote on the moratorium extension, which was included in the Fiscal Year 1992 appropriations bill for the Department of the Interior.

"It is absolutely critical that the moratorium offshore leasing continue," Panetta said. "The moratorium has consistently stood as a bulwark against Reagan and Bush Administration plans to allow oil and gas drilling along the most sensitive areas of our coastline."

He added, "A long-term solution is preferable, and it is my hope that we can enact legislation to ban all California offshore leasing until at least the year 2000. But in the absence of such legislation, a continuation of the existing moratorium is essential."

The extension also covers the coasts of Oregon, Washington, and the Florida Keys, as well as the Atlantic coast from Maine to Georgia.

Water budget

feasible. The two wells could work as a "safety valve" if bigger projects such as the plant and the dam are delayed, he added.

Although the desalination study might be costly, Ray Millard, administration services manager for the district, said $5.8 million has accumulated in the district's new water supply account since its inception in 1985. Millard said new water supply revenues come from water hook-up fees and bank interest.

If the budget schedule goes through as planned, only $3 million would be left in the account by 1992, Millard said. He said expenditures on the new wells and studies on the dam will work toward the fund's depletion.

With that in mind, Cofer said a public poll needs to be taken on the desalination bond issue by fiscal year 1993, which runs from July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1993.

The fast track nature of the plans could give the board a boost in public approval, according to Chairman Dale Hekhuis. The directors' inability to come up with a new water supply over the years has prompted criticism from a thirsty and economically burdened public.

"I think our credibility is based on new water," Hekhuis told the board. "We have to demonstrate that we can move forward expeditiously."

business-oriented followers. It was obviously a carefully orchestrated plan to attack the council majority, and to make their jobs unpleasant, so perhaps, one or more of them might decide not to run for office again. Similarly, Carmel citizens would hesitate to accept a position on one of the city's board or commissions if they are going to have to endure such harsh, rude treatment.

Council members Jim Wright, Ken White and Barbara Brooks are fine, courageous people. They were clearly elected by the residents of Carmel to represent their concerns about the future of the city. This sticks in the craw of the landlords, developers and other profit-motivated types — most of whom live outside the city limits and, therefore, cannot vote in city elections. What they cannot win at the ballot box, they hope to win by bullying, intimidation and other ugly behavior.

I salute Jim, Ken and Barbara. To them I say, "Thank you for a job well done. Don't let the shouting and harsh words discourage you. And, never doubt that the citizens of Carmel, the gentle people who live here, support your actions."

To the writer of last week's editorial in the Pine Cone, I say: "You must get your material from Alice in Wonderland."

Fathers more difficult

Dear Editor:

So many women stopped by my shop to comment on my letter about mothers, I've been left with a nagging need to write about fathers on their day.

This has been more difficult for me and less free-flowing. My relationship with my father had left me with an emptiness and a need to fill that space with another man. Little did I know that the most difficult and painful part of my life would turn out to be my biggest learning lesson in life.

No matter how talented I was, how accomplished I was, how many mates I had, I still felt this hole in my heart. I had a father who cried when he listened to music but was insensitive to my needs as a child and left me very scarred.

But, because of this I finally learned he gave me a gift — the gift of learning that no other can make you happy. The hole in my heart is filled with my love for myself and I no longer need him.

So thanks dad, I care about you — I forgive you and Happy Father's Day, to you and all father's everywhere.

Fair representation

Dear Editor:

According to my belief, councilpersons White, Wright and Brooks acted correctly in not supporting the mayor's nomination for planning commission. The problem has nothing to do with the personal characteristics of the nominee, Mr. D'Isidoro. It has to do with the fact that the property on Fourth Street, developed and owned by Mr. D'Isidoro, could be affected by zoning changes which are now being discussed by the planning commission. Also, his wife's real estate interests would make it difficult for Mr. D'Isidoro to participate in meetings where her activities would be discussed.

Carmel residents don't want another (fourth) appointee who is financially tied to the building/development/real estate industry. Right now the only person on the planning commission without ties to local business and building is Mr. Hanna, the mayor's two-time campaign manager.

It does seem to me that we residents deserve to be represented by someone in the community who does not have any conflict of interest with planning commission decisions.

Marjorie L. Timmins

Misguided editorial

Dear Editor:

Last week's editorial "A slap in the face" made me wonder if indeed we attended the same Carmel City Council meeting.

Both candidates were politically rejected not because of their qualifications, of which they were allowed as much time as they wanted to extol, but were rejected to protect Carmel citizens from commissions that are unbalanced and do not represent all sectors of the community. This I believe to be responsible government and by no means for specious reasons as you wrote. Government is for all the people, therefore, all people can best be served by representatives from every segment of the community.

The difference of opinions of the mayor and three councilmembers is how best to fill vacancies on the planning and forestry commissions. Mayor Grace wants to select the nominees and would like a "rubber stamp" approval from the council. Councilmembers Barbara Brooks, Ken White and Jim Wright felt a more democratic method would be offered by a process in which the entire board could interview all persons who had applied and a selection made by vote of the board members.

Your editorial found this to be transparently vindictive and unfavorable and should not have been brought up in an open meeting. Do you think there is a better method than an open meeting to make a modification of the appointment procedure?

Your accusation of Barbara Brooks statements as self-serving is absurd, petty and untrue. As a councilmember she is hard-working, polite, approachable, forthright, honest and very very bright. Do you suggest the people who supported her for the job were irresponsible Carmel half-wits? We are not and you can bet we will be back next year to vote for candidates who stand for good government and equality to all segments of the community.

I truly believe you should apologize to the councilmembers and readers and retract "A slap in the face" as a misguided unwarranted editorial.

The British are coming

JUST KIDDING. But seriously, if you haven't already the scoop in the new and updated CBA newsletter, plans are being made for the city to don a British motif during mid-December.

Specifically, the CBA is working closely with the British Consulate to create a week in which British products, food tastings and other lively events encourage shoppers to start shopping.

CBA officials are encouraging merchant participation and have prepared "merchant packages" to ensure continuity throughout the town.

The package includes a wreath with ribbon for the front door, window sticker, British flags for display, coupons for drawing for round-trip tickets to London, half-price tickets to British food tastings and advertising for the event.

All can be yours for $100. For more information call 624-2522.

Together we grow...That's the name being given to the CBA's upcoming membership drive slated for June 17-21, when 18 volunteers will be hitting the streets to drum up support.

"Our goal is to sign up 60 new members," said Kerri O'Connor, co-chairperson. "We are already having some success, even though the actual drive does not start until next week."

The CBA, whose offices are now ensconced in Clint Eastwood's new building, is interested in representing Here's your chance to promote Dad to the comfort of a Pier 1 chair, our big Papasan or versatile swivel rocker. Both are constructed of sturdy, hand-bent rattan with a walnut stain finish. And both come with a cushion in a selection of solid colors sure to include Dad's favorite shade. Then, give him the added comfort of our padded rattan footstool. For Father's Day, Dad's the boss at Pier 1.

During a kick-off meeting held June 4 at Pacific Western Bank, volunteers were given names of those businesses who qualify for CBA membership.

In addition, there will be a new member reception from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Monday, June 24, hosted by the Pine Inn.

CBA officials say merchants can beat the rush by simply calling their offices at 624-2522 for membership information.

tee that this land would be able to be developed.

I am in sympathy with the Odello's but in this case we must find some other way to compensate them and not allow development.

The flood control issue is bogus, at most the "extra protection" of Odello West land will save the valley mouth for about one day.

The traffic issue is paramount. How can we even consider allowing development when Highway 1 is bumper to bumper down to the Highlands during the busy summer times. Turn lanes will have no impact. How are cars going to get in and out of that development?

Don't vote for a traffic nightmare.

Don't vote to destroy one of our most precious viewsheds.

Don't let this issue get mixed up with a desire for the Odello's to finally get compensation.

Thanks to the council

Dear Editor:

The Carmel Architectural and Historical Survey Committee extends its deep gratitude to the Carmel-by-the-Sea City Council for the funding of the survey's second and final phase, the hiring of an architectural historian to evaluate the results of our survey.

We are extremely grateful to Councilmember Ken White for introducing the topic at the last council meeting, and to Councilmember Jim Wright for voicing his spirited support of the survey and the need for timely completion of its second phase.

Many thanks to Mayor Jean Grace and Councilmembers Barbara Brooks and Bob Fischer for adding their support of this important work.

Ludicrous honor

Dear Editor:

It's a bit ludicrous, isn't it, that the plaque designating the home of famed journalist Lincoln Steffens "an historic site in American journalism" is still in place on San Antonio when the house is no longer there?

Steffens was the premier "muck-raker" among the early-era investigative reporters, most famous for his classic Shame of the Cities. His international reputation was built on his relentless determination to expose greed, corruption and social hypocrisy wherever he found it. He lived his last years in Carmel and his home was frequented by a long stream of distinguished visitors, including Gertrude Stein, Alice B. Toklas, Edna St. Vincent Millay, and Lindbergh.

Restored to its original condition a few years ago, the Steffens house was featured in the San Jose Mercury as well as local papers. Alas, the home was sold two years ago and was essentially dismantled. The bronze plaque, which was placed there by a national journalism society years ago, now fronts a new, larger house and a subterranean two-car garage that has supplanted what used to be Lincoln Steffens' rose garden.

Shouldn't the plaque be returned to those who presented it as it now commemorates nothing at all?

Something mom said

Dear Editor:

Last year, I suffered a traumatic experience that left me devastated. Then, I remembered something my mother had once told me. She said, "Whenever you're hurting, go out and do good works." So, I walked into the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross and said, "Ready or not, here I am!"

That was one year ago, May 31. In return for my "good works," this is what The American Red Cross has done for me:

- I am certified to teach CPR and Standard First Aid.

- I have taken many other classes including Health Services Education, Blood Services, and Disaster Preparedness.

- I am on the committee for the Multi-Cultural Outreach Program and I am ready to teach in Spanish.

Isn't it incredible? I am very grateful to the American Red Cross. Especially to the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter. I have come to know many kind and loving people. I am still learning, but I feel confident

DORIS DAY'S BEST FRIENDS

By Doris Day

More summertime hints

LAST WEEK'S column included hints on making summertime travel with your pet more comfortable for both of you. Although many of you will be vacationing with your "best friend," I honestly feel that in most cases there's no place like home for your pet.

Most animals are frightened by strange surroundings and the stress of travelling can be very upsetting to them. On the other hand, many of you pet owners could have the perfect traveller and I wouldn't want to cheat those guys out of a family vacation! It's up to you to use your good judgment. If your pet is easily upset and nervous in the car, then it's much nicer for him to be at home, in familiar surroundings, where it's peaceful and quiet.

And this brings me to my next suggestion: Find a live-in pet—and leave! You don't want that. It's important to have someone move into your home who will care for your pets, plants and home with tender, loving care.

You can find bonded pet sitters through your veterinarian or listed in the phone book. Or ask among your friends — you might find someone who'd love to care for your four-legged while you're away.

Be sure to leave detailed information about your pet's daily routine. Write down what he eats, where he eats, how often he eats, how he should be exercised, any medications and/or vitamin supplements, where he sleeps, a phone number for your regular veterinarian and an emergency vet. Of course, leave your travel itinerary and set an agreed-on time in advance to telephone home and check conditions. Be sure that your pet is wearing a comfortable collar (webbed nylon is best — don't use a choke chain) with an ID tag.

Summer vacation can be a positive experience for our pet — even if he spends it at home! The extra attention he'll receive from his "sitter" will be a real treat and he'll have the added joy of welcoming you home!

LOVING HOME NEEDED

We'd like you to meet "Miskey," an adorable, sweet, loving little Manchester Terrier mix. She's spayed, 2-1/2 years old, about 25 pounds, and housetrained! A really perfect girl who would make a wonderful pet for an older couple. She'd prefer a peaceful, quiet home to one with a bustling, young family. The photo we have doesn't do her justice, so please call and come see "Miskey." She's a winner!

ARE YOU A PART OF THE 'IN' CROWN??

HAVE YOU ADOPTED A PET FROM THE DDPF??

If so, we'd love to hear from you! We answer so many calls each day from people wanting to place their pets, people wanting to adopt a pet, people wanting medical help...it's just impossible to find the time to regularly check on the pets we've placed. We'd love to hear all the good news about our "kids" so please — drop us a line, a postcard would be fine, and maybe a picture or two. We'll be waiting to hear from you!

HAPPY ENDING: Don and Linda Perry of Carmel adopted our beautiful "Max" a few months ago. This is Steven, their son, with Max, his best friend. They also adopted Erica (a beautiful cat), and recently a new little kitten. Thank you Don and Linda for caring.

Bye for now — see you next time.

Festivities mark end of season

TICKETS ARE still available for this weekend's "Super Saturday" barbecue at Larson Field. The bat-a-thon pledges should all be turned in by now; players will have the opportunity to hit three pitches off the pitching machine or tee. The farthest hit will be tabulated for pledges.

"Super Saturday" is this year's major fund-raiser, so please support the league and bring your family to the ball park for old-fashioned fun!

BRONCO: Derek Rayne took a 10-9 win over Bay Bikes on June 4. Top DR hitters: Chris Langslet, Ben Cook, Ryan Bailey (all 2/3, double) and Rushad Eggleston (2/3). BB's Nick Marazzo played good defense; Langslet turned a double play for DR while pitching.

Vessey's topped La Playa June 6, 17-12. David Keeble (2/4) and Jack Camp (2/3) led LP's hitting, while Reid Roberts (3/5, double) and R.J. Minard (triple) led the winners. More doubles came from Ben Armbrust, Seth Duval and Sasha Vorobiov (V). V's Mike Yee struck out the side to end the game. Pitcher Yee has allowed only 2 hits in the last 3 games he's pitched (7 innings)!

Derek Rayne shut out Pine Inn June 8 with a 14-0 score. Ryan Bailey, Erik Langalet (2/3) and Ben Cook (2/4) doubled and Kris Pallastrini was 2/2 for the winners. DR's Chris Langslet turned an unassisted double play; David and Chris Spillfogel turned a 6-4 double play for PI, while Robby Blagg made a great catch in the fourth.

La Playa downed Carmel Valley Disposal 11-3 on June 8. Heavy hitters for the winners: Jack Camp (3/3, 2 doubles, 3 RBI), Russell Chaplan (2/3, double, RBI), David Keeble (2/4, 4 RBI), Chris Edwards (1/2, RBI) and Morgall Rogers (double, RBI); Matt Borek and Kevin Witherell also doubled. CVD's Peter Jamison drove in two runs with a smash single to right field. LP's Michael Cohen pitched 3 no-hit, shut-out innings (with a broken arm) and Derek Rinderknecht allowed only one hit, while Chaplan threw out two runners at third. CVD's shortstop Richard Vega demonstrated a strong, accurate arm, nabbing two runners at first.

Bay Bikes topped Vessey's in an exciting game June 8. Tim Greco (BB) was great at catcher and hit 2/2; V's top hitters were Ben Armbrust and R.J. Minard (both doubled) and Zak Gibson. Seth Duval and Sasha Vorobiov (V) turned a double play; Sandy Greenfield and Chri-Arthur (BB) executed a neat run down to end the game. Doctor Pasta

A BACHELOR businessman whose briefcase always contains two cans of Contadina tomato sauce and a package of cappellini can only be Italian. Have pasta will travel. A romantic dinner for two is no further away than a can opener and a pot of boiling water. Guaranteed to win any working woman's heart.

TUMBLIN' TUMBLEWEEDS

The average daytime temperature in Santa Fe in June is 78 degrees and drops down to 52 at night. Summer on the high desert. The weather at "A Santa Fe Sunday," held at Stonepine in Carmel Valley rivaled desert climes, especially in the wind department. A stiff breeze billowed dust around the pasture/parking lot as intrepid Chartwell School friends and supporters parked and followed the non-country western sounds of songs like, "Take the A Train," to the Paddock House lawn. Guests wore variations on a cowboy theme and got into the Santa Fe spirit, compliments of Stonepine, with carriage rides and a margarita or two.

The sun goes behind the mountain early at Stonepine and Jerry Takigawa, who designed the event invitations, braced himself against the breeze as he carried his plate of Southwestern barbecue to the nearest table. The spread included corn bread, black beans, chicken breast, mahi mahi, scampi and flap steak. Someone said flap steak is another word for a cow's double chin. Tom O'Neal's gazebo-turned-photo-studio was shelter from the storm for many cowgirls and cowboys who sat in a steer horn n' hide chair for their official portrait.

Chartwell trustee emeritus and co-founder Nicki McMahan said she was pleased to see so many new faces added to the familiar group of staunch supporters. You might say it was a breath of fresh air.

The weather didn't daunt spirits and the antique silver in the Silent Auction drew generous bids, especially from Shirley Vitt. Dale and Virginia Leidig were the high bidders for the queen-sized quilt, which was hand-painted by Chartwell students, and Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck won the grand prize, a stay at Stonepine.

The main attraction for many of the pseudo-Santa Fe-ans was a demonstration by Stonepine Equestrian Director Tom Harris and his cast of liberty horses. Tom's three-month-old son, Cactus Sam, watched from the sidelines, waiting for the day when he can take his turn in the show ring.

The chill factor may have been low, but the sell-out crowd was in high spirits and Chartwell School raised at least $20,000. Funds will help subsidize school operating costs and scholarships.

Gordon and Noel Hentschel, owners of Stonepine, graciously donated the site for the Chartwell event. Their 11-year-old son Anthony is a student at the school.

A PLACE IN THE SUN

The Carmel Valley Garden Association held their monthly meeting at The Holman Ranch, on the sunny and breeze-less side of the canyon. Outgoing President Beulah Hatter presented Holman Ranch owner Dorothy McEwen with a floral watercolor as a hostess gift and introduced Mary Martin as the incoming president. Lifetime memberships were presented to Vera Stokes and Bernice Leoni.

Hatter claims the Carmel Valley Garden Association is a party bunch but adds they also have some particularly fine gardeners, both men and women members. The members donate their time, talent and money to the beautification of Carmel Valley. This year's club project is a 200-by-10-foot flower bed in the new Carmel Valley Community Park. Horticulturist Mark Eaton of the Begonia Gardens donated his time and drew up a plot plan for the garden and the club has scheduled a planting day for this Saturday.

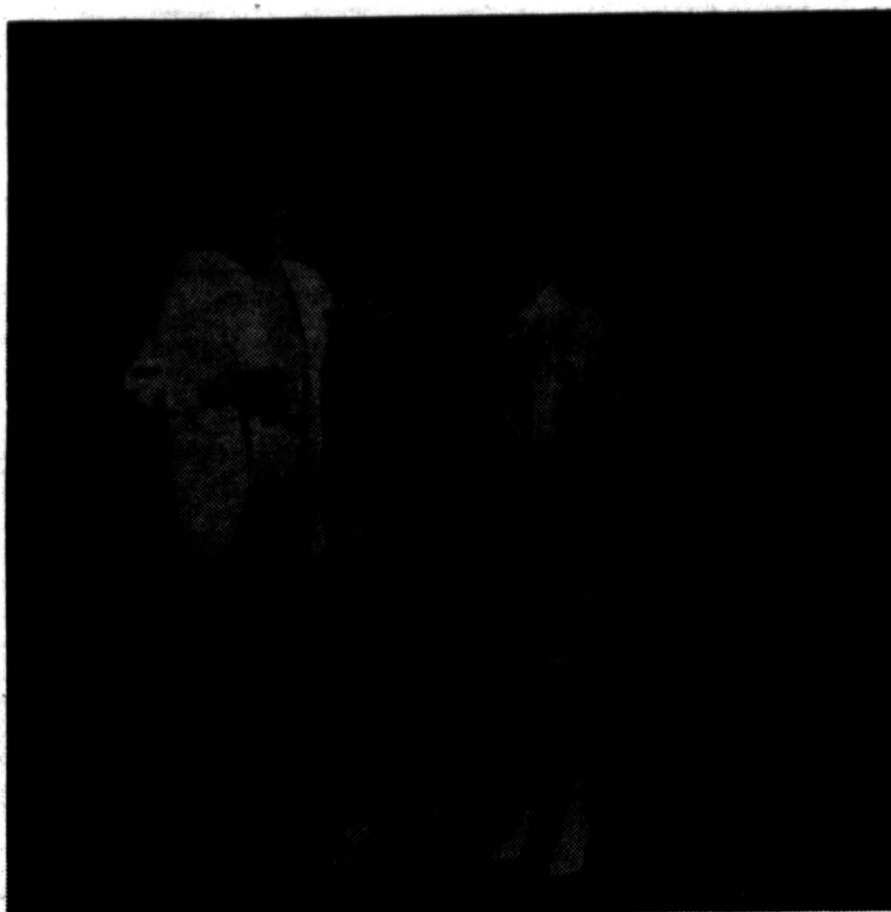

The partying and planting Carmel Valley Garden Association is looking for new members. If you're interested call President Mary Martin at 659-4563. Meetings are held one a month, September through June.

BRITISH HOLIDAY

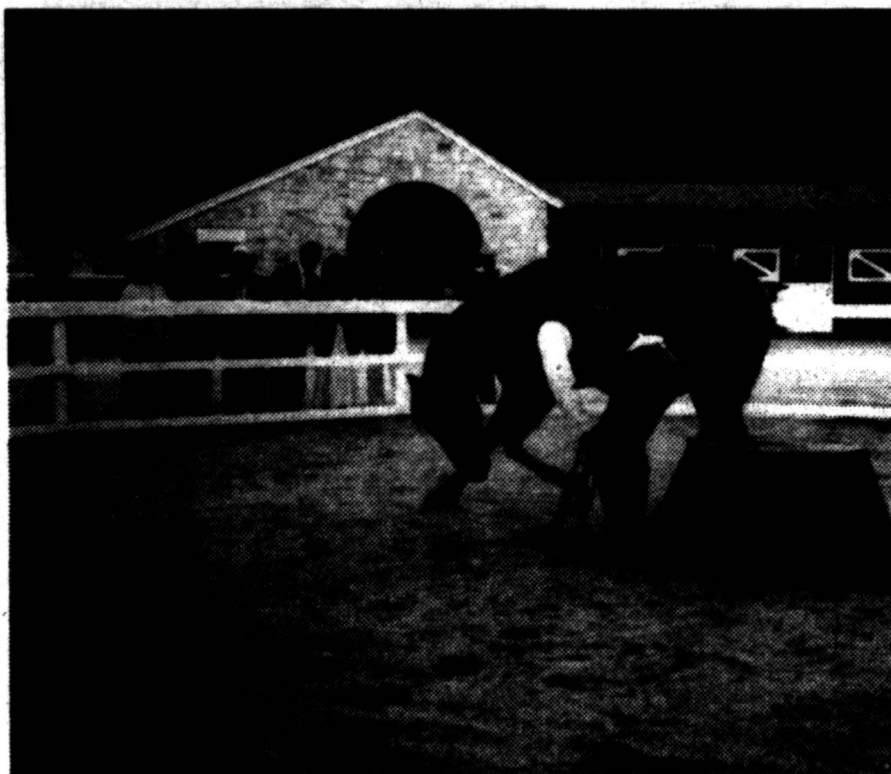

The Carmel Business Association gave Carmel a shot in the arm with their first "Block Party." They closed off Lincoln Avenue between Ocean and Seventh to announce the "British Holiday," a week of Christmas programs planned for downtown. The British Consulate in San Francisco is assisting the CBA with contacts in the United Kingdom as sources for British items that will be available during the week. Events during the "British Holiday," December 6-15 will include high teas, ale tastings, puppet shows, carolers in the courtyards and an "Alice in Wonderland" tea party.

The first "Block Party" gave CBA members a chance to explore nooks and crannies that often go ignored. Stores stayed open and attention was concentrated in one area, giving merchants on the block an exclusive evening of networking.

Carmel Business Association Executive Director Toni Jepson reported an enthusiastic reaction to the "Block Party." The question she heard most was, "When are you going to do this on my block?"

PEEPS

KINDERGARTEN teacher Debbie Bradford couldn't attend the "All You Can Eat Ice Cream Social and Silent Auction" held recently at the Kindergarten Center in Pacific Grove. Her friends and students filled the school playground in a show of support and friendship for Debbie, who is battling Hodgkin's Disease.

It was perfect weather for eating ice cream. Perfect by PG standards anyway. Foggy, blustery, cold. Who would want the sun to come out and melt everything?

Warm hearts and generous pockets at the "Ice Cream Social and Silent Auction" helped Debbie and her two sons, Eric, 14 and Ryan, 16, cope with medical bills and the recent burglary of their home. For more information on how you can contribute to Debbie's cause, call Sandy Rader at 375-9966 or Emily Owens at 373-0207.

MARSHA Hovick of Children's Experimental Theater called up as soon as she read about summer recreation programs on the peninsula in last week's "Coast & Country." Hovick is eloquent and convincing when she describes the CET's summer "Theater Arts Intensive" program for children aged 7-14.

"Children who have never been in a production are given an opportunity to pause and invite their souls," she explains. The program is not just about theater. There are life lessons to be learned in concentration and the completion of a task.

"Theater Arts Intensive" is a four-week course about learning skills that slip through the cracks during the frenzy and hype of a performance. Masks, make-up, pantomime, stage combat, fencing, costume history and design, storytelling, puppets, judo, t'ai chi chuan, theater history, improvisation and more. Quiet classes are alternated with strenuous activities and students give a demonstration for parents at the end of the four-week session. Classes are held five days a week at the Indoor Forest Theater. For more information call CET at 624-1531.

THE Monterey Sports Center under construction has announced a contest to name the official Sports Center mascots, two larger-than-lifsize seals covered with synthetic fur. Considering the brief, but toxic history of the Sports Center site, our choices are Toxide and Moxide or Flo and Glo (as in radioactive).

COMIC RELIEF

The Forest Theater Guild held a preview of the 1991 season at the Outdoor Theater recently. Scenes from this summer's productions Of Mice and Men and Beckett were presented to the local crowd who sipped wine and nibbled hors d'oeuvres. Someone recalled the days when there was no stage and the actors had to run behind the trees to change costumes.

Guild board members had fun dressing up as "Suzy's floozies" from Of Mice and Men and Lyonel Badger's lies and demeanor as the childlike Lenny brought laughs where they were not intended.

Of Mice and Men is serious theater. Director and original Guild member Cole Weston replied philosophi-

Getting the breaks

MICHAEL PALSHAW and Scott Faverty (above), of the Carmel Pony League A's hold the remains of Palshaw's aluminum bat, which a stunned Faverty shattered in the fourth inning of a recent game between the A's and the Red Sox. Meanwhile Palshaw goes into his wind-up during the A's-Red Sox game. Palshaw pitched a gem: a seven inning, 12-strikeout no-hitter. . . and one broken bat.

ST. JOHN'S CHAPEL CENTER SET FOR JUNE 16

St. John's Episcopal Church will celebrate its Centennial on Sunday, June 16. Known to many as the Del Monte Chapel, this historic church was founded as a Chapel-of-Ease for the guests at the original Hotel Del Monte 100 years ago. Among its early supporters were two members of the Big Four of Western railroad fame: Charles Crocker and Carlos Huntington, as well as many prominent San Francisco residents.

Designed by the well-known Victorian architect Ernest Coxhead of San Francisco, it is regarded as a prime example of the arts and crafts movement of the late 19th century. With the advent of the freeway in the 1950's the chapel was moved from its original site on Fremont Street to its present location on the corner of Mark Thomas Drive and Josselyn Canyon Road in Monterey.

The President of Del Monte Properties, Samuel F. B. Morse, was instrumental in obtaining the new property

Her experience and wide selection of materials provide her clients with the comfort and look they want while staying within their budget.

WHAT IS IT THAT KEEPS HAPPINESS JUST OUT OF REACH FOR SO MANY? ADDICTIVE THOUGHT PATTERNS DISCUSSED BY PSYCHOLOGIST

Dr. Lee Jampolsky will be the guest speaker Sunday,

June 23, at 11 a.m. at the Pacific Coast Church in the Robert Down School auditorium on Pine Street in Pacific Grove. Jampolsky will discuss "Freeing Yourself From Addictive Patterns in Relationships," the subtitle of his new book: Healing the Addictive Mind. He defines addiction in newer and broader terms: focusing on patterns of thought.

Jampolsky says, "If you have ever felt that your happiness is dependent on a specific outcome to a situation - like someone else's behavior, getting something, making more money, etc. then, you are thinking in addictive ways." He will present new ways of thinking that will lead to a deeper happiness and peace of mind.

Lee Jampolsky, Ph.D., is a psychologist in private practice in Monterey. He is a consultant to various treatment programs for chemical dependency and is the founder of the outpatient program at the Community Hospital Recovery Center and Clint Eastwood Adolescent Program. He lives in Carmel Valley with his wife and daughter. For more information call 372-2173.

LEADERSHIP MONTEREY PENINSULA ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

Leadership Monterey Peninsula (LMP), a nonprofit, educational organization providing leadership training to emerging and potential community leaders, has announced that applications for the class of 1991-92 are now being received.

LMP begins its tenth class year in September 1991 and expects to admit approximately 30 men and women. The program is open to anyone, regardless of age, gender, race or religion, who lives or works on the Monterey Peninsula.

The program features day-long sessions with community leaders in business, government, arts and culture, the environment, the military, education, and human services. Small group projects, focused on community issues are developed, and class members meet informally in fireside chats with individual leaders in various fields.

An application packet, which describes the program and includes a yearbook produced by the class of '91, can be obtained at the open house, from the Chamber of Commerce of the Monterey Peninsula at 380 Alvarado Street, by contacting the LMP office at Mariposa Hall, 801 Lighthouse, Monterey, or calling LMP executive director Cynthia Hall at 649-8252.

HOST FAMILIES SOUGHT FOR STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Ilsoon Shin of Carmel, local coordinator for the Academic Year in America high school exchange program, is presently interviewing families in this part of California to host a foreign exchange student. The cross-cultural learning program places teenagers from Europe, Asia and Latin America with American families for a semester or school year.

California has been host to dozens of foreign students this year. "Spring time is the most exciting time of the program year for these students," says Shin. "They love the prom, yearbooks and class rings." Customs like these, which are part of any American teenager's experience, are new and different for teens from abroad.

The program also gives American families the chance to learn about a foreign culture. Exchange students bring their holiday customs, their native language, and the special dishes of their homelands into their American homes. "It's like a trip abroad without ever leaving home," notes Shin. "These interesting young ambassadors soon win the hearts of their hosts. They arrive as strangers and become 'sons' and 'daughters' in their American families."

Next year's participants, chosen from hundreds of applicants, will arrive in California in August. They all speak English, are covered by full medical insurance, and have their own spending money. Host families

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

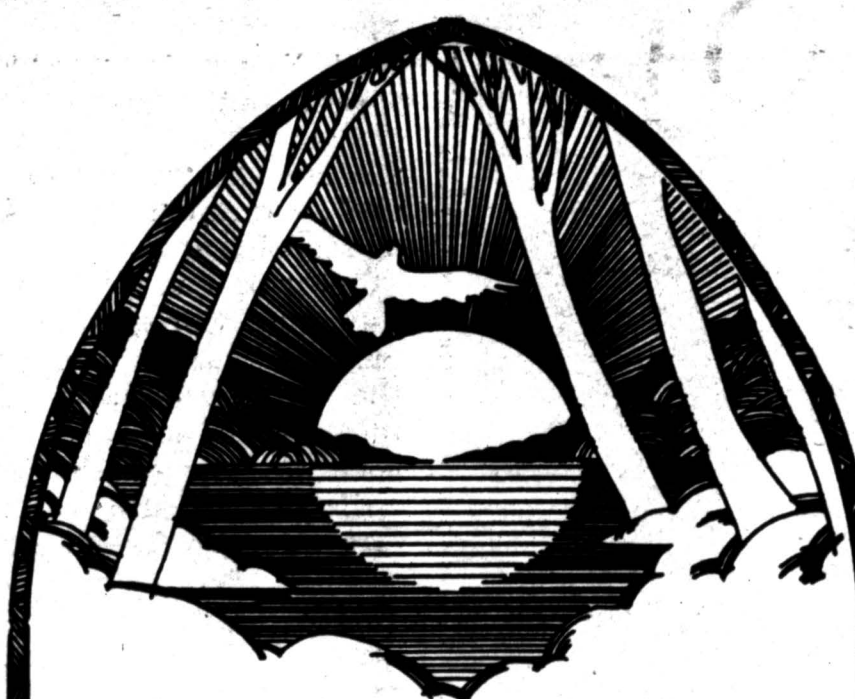

Stevenson's prayer

IN 1876 Robert Louis Balfour Stevenson, while living in Fountainbleau, south of Paris, met Fanny Vandergrift Osbourne of Monterey. They fell in love and when she returned to Monterey, Stevenson followed in August of 1879 and they were married the next year.

I discovered an early edition of Stevenson's essays during my recent housecleaning. The book was published two years after his death in 1896. It contained a violent and passionate defense of Father Damien, who gave his life in the service of the lepers of Molokai. It is a classic diatribe against Damien's detractor, the Rev. Dr. Hyde.

Stevenson and his family settled at Vailima, in Samoa. As a patriarch, he gathered his family and his Samonian servants for evening prayers. Stevenson became angry with a fellow Scot, an alcoholic who visited him at Vailima. He verbally castigated him and then ordered him from his home.

That evening he recited this contrite prayer: "Oh Lord, enlighten us to see the beam that is in our own eye, and blind us to the mote that is in our brothers. Let us feel our offenses with our hands, make them great and bright before us, like the sun, make us eat them and drink them from our diet. Blind us to the offenses of our neighbor, cleanse them from our memories and take them out of our mouths forever. Help us with the grace of courage; touch us with fire from the altar that we may be up and doing, to rebuild our city; in the name and by the method of Him in whose name and prayer we now conclude." Amen

The Golden Years

By Miles Williams

The Center for Creative Retirement, located on the Asheville campus of the University of North Carolina, is promoting a growing trend among retirees - to engage in meaningful community service and take classes in a college setting, while still leaving time for golf or other pastime. About 2,000 retirees a year attend classes of the College for Seniors or take part in programs to tutor school children, serve as mentors for college students, and find other ways to put their skills and experience to use as volunteers.

"At my age (93), you learn to appreciate what you have," Edith Walzer told an interviewer. "If you only need a walker to get around, you say 'thank goodness I don't need a wheelchair.'" Walzer, who retired as a teacher 30 years ago, lives in Philadelphia. She isn't one to sit around. After a series of tests, she received an OK to work out on the bicycle, treadmill and rowing machine in a gym.

Remember When? November 20, 1945 - Six months after the end of World War II in Europe, the International War Crimes Tribunal began trials of high-ranking Nazis. The trials revealed the extent and horror of Nazi atrocities.

COMMUNITY GRANTS AWARDED BY MARCH OF DIMES

The March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation recently awarded grants to three Monterey County organizations concerned with the health of mothers and children.

Funding was given to: C-PALS of Monterey County, a newly formed cleft palate support group for parents and children; the Monterey Bay Spina Bifida Support Group for outreach to families of children with spina bifida; and the Natividad Medical Foundation for an informational campaign regarding serious maternal and child health care needs in Monterey County.

The Health Professional Advisory Committee (HPAC), a March of Dimes volunteer committee, annually reviews grant proposals received from community groups.

The mission of the March of Dimes is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality through community services, advocacy, research, and education. The Monterey Bay Division office maintains a free lending library of audiovisuals related to birth defects and healthy pregnancy, offers educational brochures, and provides referrals related to maternal and child health.

MIRA RECEIVES GRANT FOR ASTRONOMICAL RESEARCH

The Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy announced today that research astronomer Dr. Wm. Bruce Weaver and Seaside High school teacher Gordon Jones received a grant from the Research Corporation. This award under the Research Corporation's "Partners in Science" program will support a collaborative research project by Weaver and Jones on just-formed stars. They will analyze infrared data from a NASA satellite taken in conjunction with data obtained with MIRA's 36-inch telescope located up Carmel Valley on Chews Ridge. The study will attempt to clarify the ways stars form.

The goal of the Research Corporation and MIRA is to involve high school teachers in research projects at the frontiers of science. They expect that teachers under the stimulation and inspiration of research will bring new enthusiasm to the classroom. MIRA believes that working with high school science teachers is also a way to narrow the gap between pure research and education. MIRA is an independent, nonprofit observatory dedicated to research and education in astronomy and is the only independent professional American observatory started in this century. For more information call 375-3220.

BACH NOTES

A tireless individual

By J.R. FOWLER, Jr.

IT IS A PLEASURE to introduce you to Mr. Ken Ahrens, a musician, music librarian, teacher and an individual we are fortunate to call friend and neighbor.

You may already know Mr. Ahrens, or you may know someone who does. He is a tireless individual of wide-ranging interests.

Ken Ahrens, the musician, studied with Heinrich Fleischer, the former organist at the Thomaskirche in Leipzig. He earned his Bachelor of Music degree from Valparaiso University. While teaching at Indiana University he also earned his Master of Music degree in organ performance. He continued his advanced studies while at Stanford University where he served as assistant university organist.

Ken Ahrens, the music librarian, has researched hundreds of musical scores, the years in which they were performed at the festival and the musicians who performed the works.

Ken Ahrens the teacher, of organ study and performance, has shared his knowledge and experience with scores of devoted students on the central coast.

In this his 28th year with the Carmel Bach Festival he serves concurrently as: festival chorus director, festival music librarian, operations manager, and organist. Mr. Ahrens was recently appointed as Chorus Director for the Monterey County Symphony.

Mr. Ahrens is the featured performer with the Bach organ recitals in the historic and acoustically rich Carmel Mission Basilica. The organ recitals are among the most popular recitals offered each year.

The Bach organ recitals are Tuesday mornings July 16, 23 and 31 at 11 a.m. The program is: the Prelude and Fugue in C: Three Chorale Preludes from Clavierbung Pt. III: Prelude and Fugue in G: Four Duets, BWV 802-805: Schmucke dich, o liebe Seele: and Passacaglia and Fugue in C.

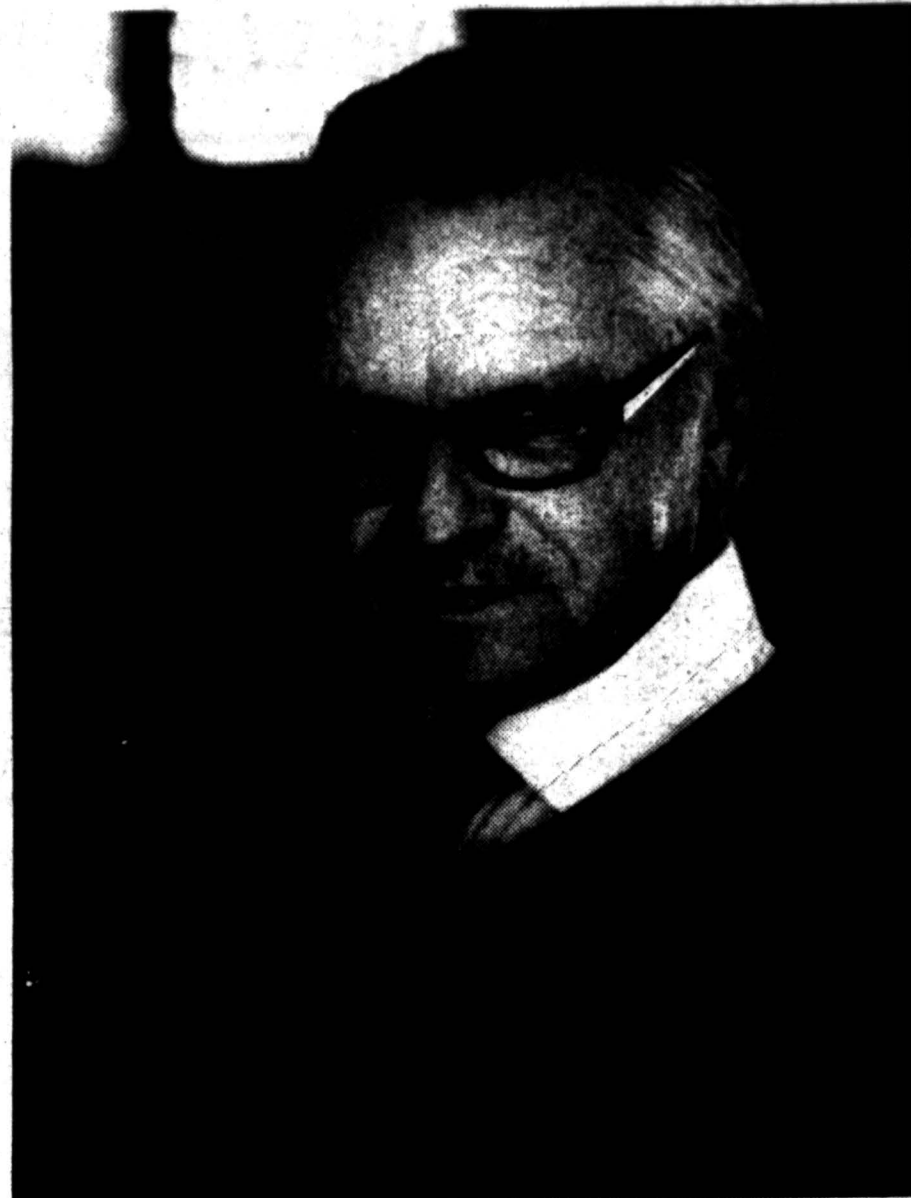

World famous Big Sur artist, and Bach organ music expert, Emile Norman told me, "There is no one who can play Bach's (organ) music at the Basilica as well as Ken Ahrens."

Whether we know Ken from his reputation or personally from having been his student or a chorus member we all agree, we are fortunate to have an individual of so many talents as staff member and friend of the Carmel Bach Festival.

Don't miss an opportunity to hear and experience the Bach organ recital in the beautiful and acoustically rich environment of the Carmel Mission Basilica.

There are only 400 seats available in the Basilica. Now is the time to order your tickets. Good seats are available. Order yours by calling the Festival ticket line at 624-2046.

More information about the music and performers of this year's Festival is available by calling the Festival office at 624-1521.

KEN AHRENS begins his 28th season this year with the Carmel Bach Festival. He serves as festival chorus director, music librarian, operations manager and organist.

Mozart in Monterey continues through June 16

VIOLINIST STEVEN STARYK heads the roster of front-rank performers who have gathered for the fifth annual Mozart in Monterey International Festival, featuring the Chamber Orchestra of America under the baton of Music Director Oleg Kovalenko. The festival continues through June 16.

Demonstrating a continuing commitment to bring world-class musicians to Central California, the Festival will offer a series of orchestral performances and chamber music concerts featuring 38 of America's and Canada's most distinguished artists - soloists, principal players from major orchestras, and key performers from the film and recording industries.

This year's Festival, marking the 200th anniversary of Mozart's death, will continue with orchestral performances to be held June 14, 15 and 16 at the Performing Arts Center, Santa Catalina School.

The Festival's conductor, Maestro Oleg Kovalenko has been Music Director of Mozart in Monterey since its founding in 1986. He served as Resident Conductor of the Indianapolis Symphony and has appeared as guest conductor of many major orchestras, including the Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis New Jersey, Baltimore and Dallas symphonies.

A special feature of the 1991 Festival will be the appearance of the Chamber Orchestra of America. Staryk, whose artistry has been compared to that of Heifetz, has served as concertmaster of four of the world's major orchestras - the Chicago Symphony, the Royal Philharmonic of London, the Concertgebouw of Amsterdam, and the Toronto Symphony. As a soloist, he has toured worldwide, and has made over 190 recordings, including 16 world premieres. Staryk will appear as soloist with the Chamber Orchestra of America on Sunday, June 16, in Mozart's Concerto No. 3 for Violin and Orchestra, K. 216, and will serve as concertmaster of the orchestra throughout the Festival.

Virginia Sublett, the young American soprano who made her debut with Mozart in Monterey during its premiere season in 1986, will return for two performances this year. She will solo with the orchestra on Friday, June 14, in Benjamin Britten's Les Illuminations, Op. 18, and will be heard on June 15 in a group vocal masterpieces selected from Mozart's operas and religious works.

In 1987, Sublett made her debut with the New York City Opera. Her performance was recognized by Musical America in its "Young Artist" issue, which identified her as a "talent to watch." Subsequently she has appeared with numerous major opera companies - most recently with the Nice Opera (France), where she appeared as Aspasia in Mozart's Mitridate, Re di Ponté, a production which was recorded for release on CD.

The series will also feature noted artists Joel Timm, oboe, and Mark Westcott and David Maroz, pianists. Timm, returning to Mozart in Monterey for his fifth consecutive year, will appear as oboe soloist with the orchestra on Saturday, June 15, in Mozart's Oboe Concerto, K. 314. He served as associate principal oboe of the New York Philharmonic under Zubin Mehta, and has made numerous recordings for Vox, CRI, RCA, Columbia and Angel.

In addition to the musicians mentioned above, members of the Chamber Orchestra of America will include Paul Renzi, principal flute of the San Francisco Symphony, William Barbini, concertmaster of the Sacramento Symphony, Dennis Tremblay, principal bass of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, Janet Lakatos, principal viola of the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra, Gwen Hoebig, concertmaster of the Winnipeg Symphony, Daniel Rothmuller, associate principal cello of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, and many other artists of international repute.

Tickets for the series of six concerts are $90; individual tickets are $12 for chamber music performances and $18 for orchestral concerts.

ARTS & LEISURE

Tickets are available from Do Re Mi Music, 625-5238 or 625-1229 or from central and northern California Bass ticketing outlets. Further information about the Festival may be obtained by writing Mozart in Monterey, Mail Box 410, 177 Webster St., Monterey, CA 93940.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

Mozart in Monterey opens at college

SUNDAY NIGHT in the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, Mozart in Monterey began its fifth annual festival with a program of a quality which, if sustained, bodes well for this weeklong recognition of the 200th anniversary of the death of a composer who excelled in almost everything musical he set his hand to.

The first of the three chamber music concerts spotlighted the first desk woodwind players of the Chamber Orchestra of America which will be heard this Friday, Saturday and Sunday under the baton of Music Director Oleg Kovalenko at the Performing Arts Center of Santa Catalina School in Monterey. Though Mozart himself was a remarkable performer on the piano as well as being an accomplished violinist and violist, instruments he wrote for with the utmost technical tact and sympathy, his creations for winds were also singularly empathetic and expressive. He claimed to dislike writing for the flute yet in the Quartet in C Major, K285 b, which opened the program, the grace and charm of the music was most captivating. Flutist Paul Renzi was joined by violinist James Stark, violist Jennifer Ries and cellist Linda Mehrabian in a delightfully entertaining score which allowed the flutist to shine in an elegant soloistic flute part. The strings functioned mainly as support for Renzi's polished and refined playing.

These words apply as well to the Quartet in A Major, K. 298 heard later in the program. The same string personnel were heard to better advantage here, having been supplied with more music to play. Both works fall into the category of salon music, but it is salon music written by a genius and it was played by a virtuoso flutist and able accompanying strings.

The Mozart Trio in E flat for Piano, Clarinet and Viola, K. 498, is a very special composition. It is a mature product and in it the instruments are beautifully matched. Their unique tone gives a special color to the music. The darker quality of the clarinet and viola are emphasized and the piano is mainly midrange as well. Clarinetist Brian Schweickhardt is an outstanding performer whose mellow timbre and musical sensitivity were truly noteworthy. Violist Nancy Severance was a worthy partner in tone and pianist Anatole Leikin's playing was fluid and skillful. The ensemble was excellent with fine attention to details of execution. Schweickhardt also played two unaccompanied modern works. The Stravinsky "Three Pieces for Clarinet Solo" (1919) took its inspiration from jazz but acquired Russian folk overtones along the way. The "Rhapsody for Solo Clarinet" (1956) by Wilson Osborn was an expressive exploitation of the warm tone of the instrument. The artist was an exemplary interpreter of both works. One gets the feeling he can make just about any music sound good.

The evening concluded with the Mozart Quartet for Oboe and Strings in F Major, K. 370. Oboist Joe Timm, very ably supported by James Stark, Jennifer Ries and Linda Mehrabian, was yet another outstanding protagonist. The oboe is cast as both soloist and chamber player and Timm was naturally in the forefront of the music, playing with flawless ease and expressive sensitivity. The tessitura of the part is better suited to the flute but Timm negotiated every twist and high flying turn with expert polish and elegant tone.

The oboe's plaintive aria in the Adagio was conveyed with lyrical, almost vocal quality. In the Rondo there was light-hearted pastoral joy and sprightly virtuosity coupled with fine tone and technical control. Once again the ensemble was noteworthy. There was a very fine, intimate quality to the concert. The MPC Music Hall is not very large and its configuration brings the audience closer to the performers because there is no stage as such to separate them. There was a true chamber atmosphere and the closeness in this particular concert situation gave a very pleasing dimension to the evening.

'Orpheus and Euridice' staged at Steinbeck Forum

Summer heat can be hazardous to your pet

RISE IN TEMPERATURES mean an increase in outdoor activities and many pet owners are tempted to include their pets. Summer can be hazardous for your pet if you're not careful. Overexposure to the sun can be not only harmful but deadly. The SPCA of Monterey County, A Humane Society, says pets will be safer if they are left at home on hot days.

Pets can die because their owner/companion doesn't realize how deadly a parked car can be on a summer day. Even with the windows partially open, a car's interior can get hot enough to cause heat-stroke or brain damage in a matter of minutes. The SPCA of Monterey County offers the following advice during the hot weather periods:

- Never leave your pet alone in a car. Dogs can't sweat so the only way they have to cool off is to pant. Open windows, shaded parking areas or air conditioned cars with the motor off won't save your pet's life.

- Always provide plenty of clean, cool water for your pet. When traveling and you have your pet with you, carry a container filled with water and offer some to your pet periodically during the trip.

- Never exercise your pet immediately before or after feeding, especially in hot, humid weather. Exercise your pet in the cool of the day — early morning and evening.

- Always keep your pet well groomed. A matted and unkempt coat can harbor insects and create severe skin problems.

- Watch out for fleas and ticks that may infest your pet. Take your pet to your veterinarian for a thorough summer checkup and use a good flea and tick repellent that your vet recommends.

SPCA flyers warning about the danger of leaving a pet in a parked car are available by calling 373-2631 or 422-4721, ext. 221.

Admission is $18 general and $15 for students and senior citizens.

The story tells of Orpheus (Sarah Blaza), a Greek poet who is grieving the death of his wife Euridice (Nancy Williams). Orpheus declares he will enter the realms of Pluto and search for her among the "spirits" of the departed. The God of love, Amor (Karole Lewis) appears and promises to aid him, on condition that when he has found Euridice he will return to earth without once looking at her.

Orpheus journeys to the Gates of Erebus, calms the guardian of the entrance to the Underworld, and is permitted to enter. He finds Euridice and without looking at her bids her follow him. She obeys, failing to understand his averted gaze, and asks that he look at her. Orpheus is unable to endure the reproaches of his wife and briefly turns to her, only to see her sink down lifeless. Orpheus is about to join Euridice in death when Love appears and cries: "Euridice revive." Orpheus and Euridice are reunited amid joyous chorus and dances, celebrating their love.

This production is directed by Kelley Alexander and will have dancers from the Ballet Fantasque. Choreography is by Kira and Milou Ivanovsky, chorus and orchestra conducted by Robert Place.

'Super Sharks' stalk Monterey Peninsula Airport

"SUPER SHARKS," artworks depicting another side of sharks, have been given a home at the Monterey Peninsula Airport. The exhibit of winning creations was spawned by the seventh annual Young People's Marine Arts Festival. The top 60 merit award winners from kindergarten through 12th grade will be honored in ceremonies at the Monterey Bay Aquarium Saturday, June 15 at 10 a.m.

Their paintings, sculptures and other works will be exhibited at the airport through Sept. 29. Artworks by another 40 recipients of honorable mention awards will be displayed at the Monterey County Office of Education. The festival is sponsored by the aquarium, the county office of education and the Monterey Peninsula Airport District's "Art at the Airport" program.

This year, nearly 400 students throughout Monterey County took part in the festival. All of them get a participant's award. Merit award winners and their families will receive free aquarium admission for the day following Saturday's award ceremonies. The awards program will also include a talk by Chris Caruthers, a scientific illustrator from Santa Cruz, and a slide show featuring the winning creations.

"Super Sharks" asked the students to focus not on the Hollywood image of sharks as man-eaters but to create artworks that reflect their diversity, their "super" adaptations for survival, and an understanding of their vital role in the ocean ecosystem. "Sharks," a special exhibition featuring these amazing predators, is on display at the Monterey Bay Aquarium through Oct. 20.

Auto Diagnostic Van pays visit to Monterey

The California State Automobile Association's Auto Diagnostic Van will be in Monterey offering over 60 separate checks of a car's engine and components, an under-the-hood exam and a fuel economy test for AAA members.

The Auto Diagnostic Van will be at the CSAA Monterey district office, 53 Soledad Drive, June 17 through June 28, 373-3021.

Also available is CSAA's popular OILSCAN program, an analysis of oil samples taken from a car's engine or transmission. OILSCAN can help determine the condition of the car's engine or transmission through analysis of wear contamination particles. OILSCAN costs $10 with the Auto Diagnosis or $12 without.

The CSAA Auto Diagnosis is completely unbiased. CSAA performs no repairs or adjustments. With their car's diagnosis, each motorist receives a detailed written report, which can be taken to their own mechanic if any corrections are advised. Motorists also receive a free copy of CSAA's "Car Care" booklet, for help with preventive maintenance and some trouble-shooting.

The Auto Diagnosis uses up-to-date electronic equipment to evaluate the performance of a vehicle's engine and its components. Cylinder balance as well as the ignition, emission, fuel, cooling and charging systems are evaluated.

Included in the "under-the-hood" portion of the Auto Diagnosis are checks of the battery and cables, belts, hoses and fluid levels. An infrared test of exhaust gases at the tail pipe provides a fuel economy evaluation. A safety check of the lights and tires completes the Auto Diagnosis.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

'Closer Than Ever': better than many

GROVEMONT'S MONTEREY Playhouse has developed into a fine performance space. Visibility is good, the theater seats are in, and there is a finished feeling to the whole operation.

The new show, Closer Than Ever, is an unexpectedly fine production with mostly great tunes. It's hard to know which one to hum on the way home. It is the creation of Richard Maltby Jr. who supplied the lyrics, David Shire who wrote the music and Steven Scott Smith who conceived it. It was originally produced off-Broadway. Not written in any conventional way, this show was a compilation of songs that ended up in Maltby and Shire's "urban file" — predominantly city stories that never found a home in any other show because they didn't quite fit the characters' development. The idea arose to pull them together as a show of their own. It worked. I found myself thinking "Why haven't we heard these songs before now?"

Several of the numbers require complex choreography and coordination. The cast is up to the challenge. Starring Laura Akard, one of our top troopers, and John Newkirk, how far off can you go? Supporting them were Nancy Larner and Patrick Spike, newcomers to the GroveMont stage but experienced performers in other arenas.

Laura's presence in a production always signals special attention. Her torch songs alone are worth the price of admission. She's also a high stepper and a fine actress as well. My favorite of hers in this show was "Miss Byrd," the mousey office girl that has a flaming private life.

John Newkirk is a GroveMont regular who reminds me of Errol Flynn. His intensity and panache give his roles real substance. His touching renditions here of fatherly remembrance moistened more than a few eyes in the house.

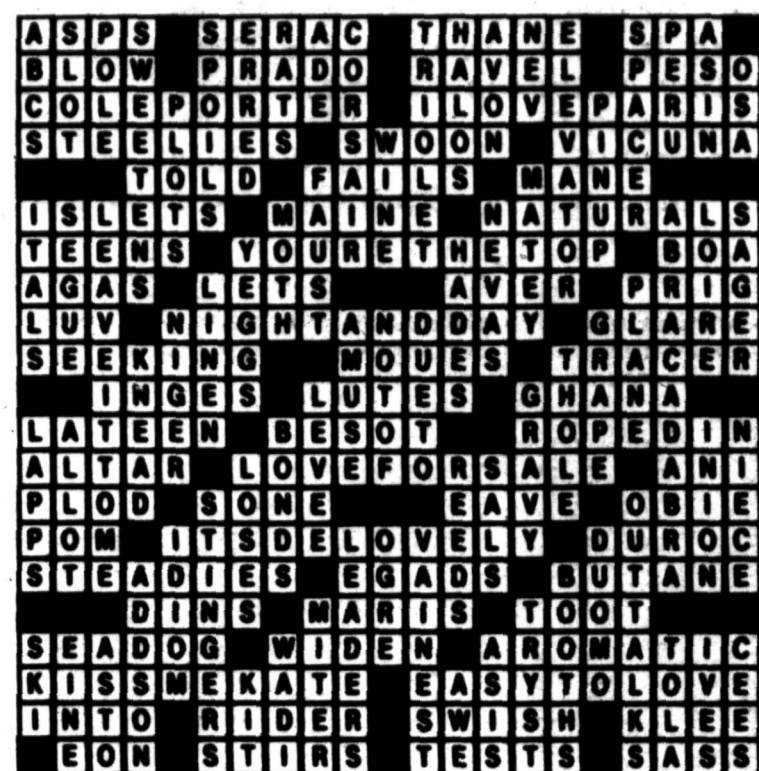

"Fandango" with John and Nancy is about a two career couple, neither of whom wants to be stuck with the baby on a particularly demanding "career sensitive" day. Nancy Larner is a relative newcomer from New York. She recently appeared in Evita and Romance, Romance at MPC. My favorite, of many fine numbers of hers, is a very funny number that concerns the females of various species and their treatment of their males — black widow spiders, praying mantises etc., need I say more? She wants to stay in Monterey and I'm very glad.

Patrick Spike turned in a fine performance in this show as the contemporary character in urban leathers. He has acted and worked backstage in several local productions like Fiddler on the Roof at Forest Theater and GroveMont's South Pacific in recent years. He is known more recently as a director both of the present show and a recent MPC musical production called Romance, Romance. Frankly, I found that show pretty unsatisfactory for several reasons. Spike's efforts in this production, however, are very good. His use of space, blocking, timing, choreography, all felt right. Spike was also responsible for the set and lighting design. The set is somewhat spare but adequate. The lighting is effective.

Two elegant ladies in white playing real instruments is so refreshing after incessant synthesizers, show after show. I mean timbre is timbre and fuzz is fuzz. Rosanna Yadegari provided the musical direction and played the grand piano; Kathy Nathan supported her well with bass and guitar.

Gripes? There are a few. The costuming was left to the cast and that was a mistake. Purple, black, and grey predominated. The splashes of red were dark red. It's a very upbeat show darkly draped. Then there was the time when it seemed the quartet lost harmony, but it was brief. The leftmost door was not opened far enough for the folks on the left to see all the action within. I should have sat on the right.

Closer Than Ever plays at the Monterey Playhouse on Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 7 p.m.

Re: Excellence

*In her low voice I heard
More than a mortal should. . .*

—Theodore Roethke

LOVE'S BIGGER than knowledge. Tougher too. So the planet's most valuable writing has a job that precedes and surpasses instruction.

Ted Roethke's lines form one quick and random example. The bedrock, moon-bright job: transmission of mystery, wonder. Literal light. In this work there's no fakery. The merely glib construct their own punishment. They don't get to sing with the frank bare stuff.

That light's ageless and pancultural and always a sweet whack, whether it flows out of Shakespeare's Arden Forest or the Tinker Creek celebrated by Annie Dillard in her contemporary Pulitzer book. Off the top I'd name these others (no particular order)—Solomon of the Old Testament love choruses, Donne, Yeats, Sappho, Robert Herrick, Emily Dickinson, Patchen, Berrigans, Gabriela Mistral, Lawrence Durrell when he's not being cute, wily Nabokov, Lamantia, David Meltzer, Dylan Thomas, Alice Walker, Bill Stafford, Margaret Atwood. Locally: poets John Dotson, William Minor, Mahesh. You get the idea—wordslinger as alchemist, mantic architect, sworn or undeclared acolyte.

What fun to start the workday with such wild, calm, respectful words. The ramble's inspired by a light-packed series from the Oregon operation run by longtime San Francisco Bay Area publisher and editor Robert Briggs. (I imagine he pointed himself northward to cut business costs.) His Broadside Editions = handsome paperbounds at just $3.95 apiece; they're so good that they offer refulgence and highly competent scholarship.

The tip-off came via the Briggs theme line in catalogues and ads: "Saluting the thoughtful reader." Now, anyone can say anything at all when composing such copy. I was surprised by how deeply he means and keeps that pledge.

Check out this lineup: great mythographer Joseph Campbell on "erotic irony and mythic forms in the art of Thomas Mann." Colin Wilson tackling "the Laurel and Hardy (right/left brain) theory of consciousness." Arthur M. Young's look at the Shakespeare/Bacon controversy. And Theodore Roszak (brilliant social critic) presenting "reflections on the Great Trumps of the Tarot." Per title, page for page, these offer more sheer insight than any scholarly prose series I've encountered in years. And please don't let the word "scholarly" scare you off: they also affirm clear communication and the real joy of learning.

Campbell: "(L)imitation comes when your judgment comes. The revelation of art is not of ethics or a judgment—not even of humanity as one generally thinks of it—but a marveling recognition of the radiant Form of forms that shines through all things. . . ."

Roszak: "Merged in the dancing figure, Magician and Priestess cycle us back to equilibrium. There is the Fool's zero in the encircling laurel wreath, become an emblem of victory. And now we see that the abyss which the Fool dares step across has become the bright void where the trusting dancer floats safe and free."

Conclusions like these have concrete and daily applications to our lives: yours, mine. More, Broadside Editions = brevity for those who feel they've no reading time. Briggs has offered a valuable and, yes, kindly gift.

The catalogue contains many other titles that deserve consideration. Available from Robert Briggs Associates—400 Second Street (#108)—Lake Oswego, Oregon 97034. Of course the Broadside Edition titles may be ordered through your favorite bookshop.

SHE DISCOVERED Robert Fulgham, one of the best-selling authors in publishing history. The reward has been significant.

Diane Reverand, former vice-president and executive editor at Villard, now serves as publisher and editor-in-chief. So announces the person to whom she'll report—President Harold Evans of Random House Adult Trade Books.

Reverand takes over for Peter Gethers. He will continue as Villard vice-president while pursuing his own literary career, editing an extensive list of writers, acquiring new titles for Villard and other Random House imprints.

Random House CEO Alberto Vitale: "Villard is one of the great publishing success stories of recent years. Peter's identification with the imprint has been so close that it has almost seemed permanent. If anyone were to succeed him, it should surely be Diane, whose connection with Villard is nearly as longstanding as Peter's, and who is one of the most effective editors in book publishing today. This will be the smoothest of transitions."

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Blues maturity

STAN'S GONE: The man and his long career deserve more than a kneejerk reaction. Word came right at deadline—Stan Getz died at his Malibu home. Age 64. Cancer. This was the month he planned to marry a young and beautiful singer. Next week, then—thoughts on the Stan who'll always outdistance mere biography.

SAFE PREDICTION: Lovers of the deeply American art form will look back and say this was the year that Monterey Bay Blues Festival came of age. The sixth annual such bash happens June 22-23 at our fairgrounds.

Recognizing certain signs of maturity in no way criticizes past editions. The forecast simply admits that every human enterprise—pro boxing, computer labs, housing the homeless, raising kids—takes practice and hardy commitment. Some obvious indications of administrative and artistic growth:

- On any given day since ticket sales began, the buy-up rate was about double that of last year. Blues fans trust MBBF

- Talent roster that celebrates this music via some of its strongest performers: Etta James, Charles Brown, Dr. John, Robben Ford, so on. And much room for younger artists like Paul Soderman and Barbara Morrison (protégé of Dionne Warwick). Citizens get to suggest stars and supporting cast through patron feedback sheets and an advisory committee.

- Respect for the fest's young history and hard work done by past planners. This year's creative mood at the board level shows up in the smoothness of programming, public information, security crew, general management.

- National Public Radio's Bluestage show will record MBBF 1991 for future national broadcast. The local KAZU-FM follows suit.

- Corporate sponsorship. Business doesn't commit bucks to weak structures.

- More variety in the sales booths along the fairway. Food-lovers will be pleased over the choices at hand.

- This year's poster. Los Angeles artist Charles Bibb did a superb job. He will be here for a private reception on June 21 at the Hyatt Regency.

- Grounds admission tickets. These give access to the excellent Garden Stage shows and all out-of-arena excitement. Just $10 per day (at the box office) and a real fine touch.

What's left to say? Congratulations. MBBF workers should be proud of what has been accomplished. Blues fans too.

WOMAN'S WORK: Barbara Murphy from Portofino Coffee House in Pacific Grove continues hitting the ball solidly. The sports metaphor merely indicates the quality-levels of her bookings.

Barbara says she'll bring in guitarist Alex de Grassi later this month (6/20-21). The Thursday and Friday night shows will start at eight o'clock. Admission's $10 per; advance tickets available (call 373-7379).

Alex, of course, stands out as a heavy-hitter for the Windham Hill label. His latest album: Deep at Night on CD and cassette. "At this point in my career," he declares, "I can honestly say that I have more breadth as a musician. I understand more types of music now, and am able to utilize them in my writing."

Additionally, Portofino will present the brilliant Brazilian pianist Weber Drummond in concert on June 28. It's $8 apiece with an eight o'clock kick. Don't miss this fellow.

SEASIDE'S LATEST Jazz in the Park Series (public freebies on Saturday afternoons) has just been announced by Recreation Super Tim Barry. Coordinating the admirable events: Dave Pacheco of that agency.

Lineup—Bassist Norm Ross and friends plus Joe Lucido's Portofino Jazz Band (July 13), tenorman Les Rose fronting a group and then Roger Eddy Band (July 20), singer-musician Bill Allison's unit plus Ace Hill Trio (July 27), blues bash with Strange Brew and Chris Cain Band (Aug. 3). Place—Laguna Grande Park at one o'clock.

Helping Tim cover the series costs was owner James Willingham of a leading Monterey auto dealership (Jaguar, Rolls, Ferrari, Saab).

TRIP TALK: Here's one possibility for future adventuring. Missouri's pumping state money into the restoration of ragtime genius Scott Joplin's former residence at 2658 Delmar Blvd. in St. Louis. He wrote some of his most famous works in the second floor apartment.

That building and the one next door, built right after the Civil War, will become a museum of ragtime history. Part of the complex will be the revived Rosebud Club, favorite hangout of early century ragtime musicians.

Meanwhile, musicians in history-rich Kansas City say that not even 10 percent of them can make a living through music alone. Tenorman Arthur Jackson was quoted this way by jazz writer Melissa Conti: "I feel sad. People as a whole do not support jazz in this town. It's pathetic. People like to listen, but they don't want to spend money for it."

And Kathe Kaul of the annual Kansas City Jazz Festival: "This city's not living up to the past reputation. It's a different time."

And trumpeter Stan Kessler: "The city has a certain amount of money and the jazz organizations are fighting over it. They're biting and clawing for money."

ON STAGE

Of Mice and Men

Cole Weston directs John Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men for the Forest Theater Guild. The production, which features sets by Kim Weston, opens Thursday, June 13 at the historic Outdoor Forest Theater.

The cast includes Ron Cohen as George and Lionel Badger as Lennie.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays until July 21. Tickets are $5 on Thursdays and Sundays. On Fridays and Saturdays, tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for students, senior citizens and the military.

Be certain to dress warmly for the Outdoor Forest Theater, which is located at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

For ticket information, call 626-1681.

Shades of Stanley Ketchel

The Poetic Drama Institute and GroveMont Theater present Taelen Thomas in the one-man show, Shades of Stanley Ketchel. Ketchel was a real-life contrasting enigma of violence and gentle sentimentality who lived during the Ragtime era. A prizefighter, he wept while listening to Chopin, idolized Jesse James, knocked out 50 opponents in 66 bouts and was known as the "Michigan Assassin."

Taelen Thomas is the poet-in-residence for GroveMont Theater. Dan Gotch directs the piece, which now includes music by Stephen Tosh.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, beginning June 14 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse in New Monterey).

For tickets and reservations, call 649-6852.

A Flea in Her Ear

The Western Stage will play the quintessential French bedroom farce, A Flea in Her Ear, in the Studio Theater of Hartnell College, Salinas. Just as Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest is considered prime British comedy, so has A Flea in Her Ear endured as the epitome of the modern French farce. Georges Feydeau wrote nearly 40 plays and this is not only his most popular, but perhaps his very best.

The production is directed by Walter Schoen. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 14-15. Hartnell College is at 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

Tickets are $10 on Sundays and Thursdays and $12 on Fridays and Saturdays. For reservations, call 375-2111 or 755-6816.

Ebullient 'Lillian'

ROSAMOND GOODRICH portrays playwright Lillian Hellmann in Lillian. The one-woman show continues its run at Cherry Hall in Carmel. For ticket information, call 624-7491.

The Princess and the Magic Pea

The Princess and the Magic Pea, a musical comedy version of Hans Christian Andersen's tale of a young prince's search for a "true princess," opens Friday, June 14 in the SRO Theatre at Monterey Peninsula College. Corpse

The Presidio Drama League and Presidio Entertainment will present a dinner/theater production of Corpse, a comedy thriller by Gerald Moon. It plays Fridays and Saturdays through June 29 at the Presidio Recreation Center at the Presidio of Monterey.

It's Abdication Eve in England, and murder is in the airwaves. As Edward VIII gives up the throne for Mrs. Simpson, all of England grieves and glues its ears to the wireless.

All, that is, but two — identical twins locked in mortal sibling rivalry to settle old scores. The Abdication virtually guarantees no witnesses to a plot that turns like a dervish, twists like a knife and spawns whole schools of red herrings.

Tom Wiley, Rick Domras and Donella Dooley star in this mystery romp, directed by Michael Cheak. The evening includes an Italian buffet catered by Belleci's, and wine and beer.

CRITIC AT LARGE

By Mac McDonald

In a Galaxy nearby

FINALLY MANAGED to make it to the new Galaxy 6 Cinemas in the Del Monte Shopping Center — that's the one that used to be the single big-screen Cinema 70. Now it's a smaller-screened six-plex with a variety of high-tech innovations.

Chief among them is the THX Dolby Stereo sound system — that's the one designed by Star Wars auteur George Lucas — in two of the six auditoriums. The others are equipped with "ultra stereo sound," whatever that is. The screen is of ample size (but not as large as Cinema 70's of course), seating is comfortable and even efficient — there are cup holders built into the arms, so no fumbling around in the dark for your soda. I watched a double feature there my first time out and my backside was only slightly numb after four hours.

Another new feature is the computerized ticketing system in which you can buy tickets a day ahead of time and also to pay for concession items along with them. From what I've heard, that may be the best route to go, either that or buy your tickets about an hour before showtime. Lines can get real long for popular films, whether you're in line for that film or not.

The concession stand is stocked with the usual assortment of candies, soft drinks and popcorn, but the owners have added a new wrinkle by offering hot dogs, nachos, Uvic mineral water and American Glace, a fat-free soft-serve dairy product in chocolate and vanilla. Yeah, I'll take a double order of nachos and some American Glace, please.

The theater is a sight to behold, all dressed up in designer pink, burgundy and brass, and now qualifies as the shiniest, most modern of all the theaters in the area — but call me old-fashioned — I still like the warm, funky ambience of the Dream Theater in New Monterey.

So far the film selection tends to the tried and true — major studio releases with an emphasis (at least this week), on comedy. But, to their credit, the theater did run a "small" film during its opening week — the critically acclaimed Mr. Johnson. It would be a brave and admirable act if they could run at least one offbeat, foreign or independent release on one of the six screens, but hey, I'm not holding my breath, after all bodies in seats is the name of the game, and films like Mr. Johnson, Ju Dou and Drowning by Numbers aren't going to do it.

Meanwhile, just sit back with your nachos and American Glace and enjoy Don't Tell Mom the Babysitter's Dead.

Info about Galaxy 6 Cinemas is at 655-4617.

BIG FUN occurs on Monday nights at Rose and Crown, traditional British pub and restaurant at 479 Alvarado in downtown Monterey.

That's when the place, a favorite of young actors and the general theater crowd, breaks out its British Comedy videos and plays 'em on the big-screen TV. Monty Python and other zanies from the foggy isles.

Not incidentally, Rose and Crown has a new Happy Hour (4:30-6:30 Monday through Friday). In the near future, owners Pete and Rosemary Blackwell will be starting classic afternoon teatime with homemade crumpets and scones.

Moreover, new chef Dean W. Anderson has plans for additional specials. Of course he'll maintain the hearty pub fare (Irish stew, cottage pie, bangers and mash, so on). Dean's a grad of the Culinary Institute in New York State and a witty young veteran of the peninsula cookpot scene.

The pub atmosphere's cozy and colorful. You can have your drinks or snacks right at the round, tiled fireplace. Bar manager Debbie Cowsill says that dart games have really caught on, evolving into league play.

YOU'LL PROBABLY be hearing about it from now until June 22, but here's the lineup for this year's Monterey Bay Blues Festival, which is slated for Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23, at the Monterey Fairgrounds. Performances will be held at both the Garden and Main stages, with the garden Stage show open to both reserved seat ticketholders as well as those with Grounds Admission tickets, and Main Stage shows for reserved seat ticketholders only.

Saturday June 22, the 12:30 p.m. afternoon show: Paul Soderman, Bobby Rush, Johnny Heartsman Revue and John Mayall. Saturday, 7 p.m. show: Otis Clay, Clarence Carter and Betty Wright. Sunday, June 22 a 12:45 p.m. start: Robben Ford, Ester Jones, Charles Brown, Dr. John, and Etta James.

By far Sunday night's show is the most powerful with nary a weak link, starting with Robben Ford's accessible fusion-blues; Ester Jones, Charles Brown's classy, smooth-as-silk singing and piano playing; Dr. John's rollicking Louisiana gumbo; and Etta James' kick-butt, down-and-dirty blues. Saturday's early show could be the weekend's most intriguing, a blue collar blues fan's blues show, from relative newcomer Soderman to Father of British Blues, John Mayall, who was the best thing about the blues festival about three years.

And by far Saturday evening's show is the most disposable, except perhaps for little-known but seminal R&B pioneer Otis Clay, who, like Charles Brown, is making a comeback of sorts.

A variety of ticket packages are available, including box seats for the entire weekend, but I'd suggest opting for Sunday if you can attend only one and Saturday afternoon as a second choice. As for Saturday night, check out Otis Clay by all means, but my suggestion is to check out the action on the Garden Stage that night. For ticket information call 394-2652.

THE FIRST shows at Paul Masson Summer Series 1991 began with Bay Area favorite Bobby McFerrin, performing with the San Jose Symphony, and continues with a strong lineup through fall.

On tap for the coming months are: Judy Collins and Leo Kottke, June 13-15; Crystal Gayle, June 16; Miriam Makeba, June 18; Johnny Mathis, June 20-23; Crosby Stills & Nash, June 24-26; Linda Ronstadt, June 27-30; George Carlin, June 30; Willie Nelson, July 1-5; The Righteous Brothers, July 6-7; John Denver, July 8-10; Hiroshima, July 11-14; Take 6, July 16; Smokey Robinson, July 18-21; Lyle Lovett, July 23-24; Robert Cray, July 26-28; Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and Texas Tornados, July 30; Ricky Skaggs, Maura O'Connell, July 31; Wynton Marsalis, Marcus Roberts, Aug. 1-3; Barbara Mandrell, Aug. 4; Kronos Quartet, Aug. 9; Smothers Brothers, Pat Paulsen, Aug. 10; Jean-Pierre Rampal, Aug. 11-12; S.F. International Comedy Competition, Aug. 11, 18, 25, 31; Michael Feinstein, Weslia Whitfield, Aug. 14-18; Dennis Miller, Aug. 17; The Nylons, Michael Tomlinson, Aug. 23; David Byrne, Aug. 24-25; George Shearing, Joe Pass and Joe Williams, Aug. 30-Sept. 1; Ray Charles, Etta James, Sept. 5-8; The Canadian Brass, Sept. 13; Bela Fleck and Strunz & Farah, Sept. 14;

Tickets are available through all BASS ticket outlets or by calling 1-741-5181.

JUST ADDED to the lineup at the always fun Chomp 'n' Stomp, Santa Cruz radio station KUSP's annual fundraiser and get-down party: R&B stalwarts and near-legends, Floyd Dixon, Rosco Gordon, Jimmy "T99" Nelson and Bill "Honky Tonk" Doggett.

The Chomp 'n' Stomp is the Little Event That Could — it's one of the most relaxed and entertaining events in the area. Every year — this is the sixth — I run into more and more people from the Monterey Peninsula. Watch out, the word is out.

This year's event—slated for two days this year, noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 6 and 7 — is a doozy: California Cajun Orchestra; "The Swamp Boogie Queen," Katie Webster; powerhouse rockabilly trio The Paladins, Lazy Lester, featuring the Junior Watson/Lynwood Slim Band; and The Motordudes, as well as the aforementioned R&B pioneers. The event also features a variety of Cajun and Creole-inspired food booths and home brew from Santa Cruz Brewery, all at the verdant and spacious Aptos Village Park. For more information call 476-2800 or 1-800-695-KUSP.

Lillian

Nick Zanides directs Rosamond Goodrich in the one-woman play, Lillian, at the Cherry Foundation in Carmel. The Monterey Peninsula College production will play at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, with 2 p.m. matinees Sundays through June 22.

Written by William Luce, the play is based on the autobiographical writings of Lillian Hellman. The play presents a sensitive, revealing portrait of one of theater's immortals. Hellman's feisty, combative persona and the compassionate, humorous woman known only to her friends and family are captured in the work.

As Lillian sits in the waiting room of a New York hospital where her long-time companion, Dashiell Hammett, lies near death, she reflects on her relationship with the writer, and her own life, from childhood to her days as artist and public figure committed to liberal causes. She recalls the people and incidents that have shaped her life, glittery figures from Hollywood and the New York theater, literary giants and beloved personal associates.

Tickets for Lillian are $8 general and $6 for students, military and senior citizens. They can be reserved by calling 624-7491. Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Shevlove, Larry Gelbart and Stephen Sondheim. Forum marries the illogicalities of ancient Roman farce with the zany nonsense of vaudeville. It won a Tony Award for best musical/best book.

Tent show prices are $10 general, $8 for students and senior citizens, and $5 for children under 12 and Grove-Mont Season Ticket Holders. The "Big Top" is located in the Upper Custom House Plaza at the top of Fisherman's Wharf on the waterfront in Monterey.

Postal Pointers

Beware of Home Improvement Fraud!

by Ann McK. Robinson,
Consumer Advocate,
United States Postal Service

Home repairs and improvements can be costly—so watch out if somebody mails you a brochure offering to do an expensive job for an unusually low price—or to make a free inspection of your home.

Experts at the U.S. Postal Service point out that these are the favorite tricks of dishonest home repair firms. Some offer a price you just can't resist. Once you sign the contract you learn why—they never deliver the service.

Free inspections usually turn up plenty of expensive repairs you don't need. Some shady companies will offer to do the work on the spot. When they leave, you may be left with a large bill and faulty repair job.

Some of these same selling techniques are also used by honest business people. That's why it's sometimes very difficult to separate the bad buys from the good buys.

Use These Precautions:

• Always get several estimates for every repair job and compare prices and terms. Check to see if

Watch out for "free inspection" offers. They may turn up repairs you don't need.

there's a charge for estimates.

• Ask your friends for recommendations—or ask the firm for references—and check them.

• Contact your local Consumer Affairs Office or Better Business Bureau to check out the company's reputation before you authorize any work.

• Pay with a check or money order—never with cash. Arrange to make payments in installments—one third at the beginning of a job, one third when the work is nearly completed and one third after the job is done.

The Inspection Service investigates violations of the mail fraud law. Consumer complaints are the primary basis for investigation by Postal Inspectors.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
CITY COUNCIL

ORDINANCE NO. 91-14

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING TITLE 17 OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE DEFINING SUBORDINATE RESIDENTIAL UNITS AND ESTABLISHING A PROCESS FOR REVIEW OF EXISTING SUBORDINATE UNITS AND NEW UNITS UNDER HARDSHIP CONDITION

WHEREAS, the goal of the City's General Plan Housing Element is "...to provide safe and affordable housing for all social and economic segments of the community while maintaining the unique village character of the community"; and

WHEREAS, Objective 03-2 of the Housing Element states, "Expand and preserve housing opportunities for residents with low and moderate income with special emphasis on providing adequate and affordable housing for Carmel's elderly residents."; and

WHEREAS, Policy P3-4 of the Housing Element is to "Establish ordinance provisions permitting a limited number of subordinate units incorporating the following provisions: a) allow all presently existing subordinate units when brought to safe and sanitary standards; b) allow additional subordinate units above the maximum established under hardship conditions; c) provide an annual review of approved subordinate units; d) following a stipulated grace period abate all nonconforming units"; and

WHEREAS, Carmel-by-the-Sea's housing stock is predominantly single-family on small lots in a natural setting; and

WHEREAS, the City's residential streets are narrow and circuitous and the use of off-street parking spaces is desirable for good traffic circulation; and

WHEREAS, the City has a limited water supply; and

WHEREAS, through a room-renting permit, the City has authorized the residential use of a room or rooms within or accessory to a single-family residence; and

WHEREAS, other subordinate residential units have long been a part of the City and have been occupied illegally; and

WHEREAS, in some cases unauthorized subordinate units do not meet health and safety standards; and

WHEREAS, unauthorized and unrestricted use of subordinate units will adversely impact the public health, safety and welfare by depleting the City's water supply, creating traffic and parking hazards, impacting the City's village in a forested area and creating a noise source; and

WHEREAS, the policy direction of the General Plan to restrict additional subordinate units is based on the City's limited water supply and the adverse impact new units would have on creating traffic and parking hazards, increasing noise, and changing the community's single-family residential character; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission held public hearings on 21 September 1988, 12 October 1988, and 28 February 1990 on the proposed Ordinance; and

WHEREAS, the ordinance, which will allow existing subordinate units and new ones only in limited situations, will have no significant environmental impacts;

NOW, THEREFORE, The City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea does ordain as follows:

SECTION ONE: The following sections shall be added to Title of the Municipal Code:

17.04.675 SUBORDINATE UNIT. An attached or detached residential dwelling unit which provides complete independent living facilities for one or more persons on the same building site on which the single-family dwelling is situated. Such a unit shall include permanent provisions for living, sleeping, eating, cooking and sanitation.

17.24.030 PERMITTED USES

G. Subordinate units as defined in Section 17.04.675 that existed prior to 5 June 1929.

H. Subordinate units that physically existed prior to 5 April 1988 and have been registered by the City pursuant to Section 17.24.130.

17.24.040 CONDITIONAL USES

I. A subordinate unit that did not exist prior to April 1988 based on a personal hardship.

17.24.050 PROHIBITIONS

E. Subordinate units that did not exist prior to 5 April 1988 or that have not been authorized by this Chapter, except as provided in Section 17.24.130.F.

17.24.130 SUBORDINATE RESIDENTIAL UNITS

A. PURPOSE: The purpose this ordinance is to permit a limited number of subordinate residential units as a source of affordable housing meeting minimum health and safety standards while maintaining the single-family neighborhood character of the R-1 Land Use District.

B. REVIEW PROCESS FOR EXISTING SUBORDINATE RESIDENTIAL UNITS

1. The owner of the property containing an existing subordinate unit and desiring to maintain such unit on the property must register within 180 days from the effective date of this ordinance (5 July 1991) such unit by filing a request for a permit with the Department of Community Planning and Building.

2. The application for a permit shall be made by the owner of record or authorized representative filing a verified statement that shall contain the following information:

- The name of the owner or owners;
- Location of the property by lot and block;
- Assessor's parcel number; (d) Lot size;
- Square footage of the primary unit and the subordinate unit;

(f) A site and floor plan showing the location of the primary and the subordinate unit;

(g) Consent to the physical inspection of the premises prior to issuance of the permit; and

(h) A signed statement from the property owner that the unit physically existed prior to 5 April 1988.

(i) A nominal fee established by City Council Resolution shall be charged to cover the cost of inspection and noticing.

3. The Department of Community Planning and Building shall verify all information and conduct an inspection of the premises within thirty days upon receipt of an application in proper form. The Director of the Department shall give written notification to the applicant identifying any violations of sections of this ordinance.

nance. The applicant shall be given 120 days after written notice is provided to eliminate and resolve all noted violations.

4. All subordinate units which meet the standards of Section 17.24.130.C shall be issued a permit by the Director of Community Planning and Building unless the permit is denied by the Planning Commission.

5. Any subordinate unit that, in the determination of the Director of Community Planning and Building, does not meet the standards for review contained in Section 17.24.130.C shall be referred to the Planning Commission for final action to approve or deny the subordinate unit permit. In approval of a subordinate unit, the Planning Commission shall establish a deadline for bringing the property into conformance with the standards established in Section 17.24.130.C. All applications for subordinate unit permits referred to the Planning Commission pursuant to this section or 17.24.130.F shall require a public hearing and shall be conducted in conformance with all public notice and hearing provisions of sections 17.46.050, 055, 060, 070 and 120.

6. Within 30 days of verification that all violations have been resolved, the Director of Community Planning and Building will issue a Notice of Intent to issue a permit. Ten days prior to issuance of a permit, notice, by posting, publication in the newspaper and mailing to all persons owning property within one hundred feet (100') of the property, shall be given of the City's intent to issue a permit. If any written objection from the public is received within that ten-day period, the permit shall not be issued until reviewed and is approved by the Planning Commission.

C. STANDARDS FOR REVIEW OF SUBORDINATE RESIDENTIAL UNITS

1. The property owner of record maintains either the primary or subordinate unit for his/her use as either (a) a primary residence; or (b) as a secondary unit that is not rented at times when the owner is not occupying the unit. Properties which do not conform to this standard shall be referred to the Planning Commission for action in accordance with Section 17.24.130.B.5 and upon sale of the property shall meet the requirement for maintenance and use by the owner.

2. The subordinate unit meets the definition in Section 17.04.675 and complies with minimum health and safety standards based on the Uniform Housing and Building Code requirements and standards for an efficiency unit identified in the UBC as follows:

- The unit shall have a minimum living area of 220 square feet.
- The unit shall be provided with a kitchen sink, cooking appliance and refrigerator facilities, each having a clear working space of not less than 30 inches in front;
- The unit shall have sufficient light and ventilation for living and kitchen use;
- The unit shall be provided with a separate bathroom, containing a water closet, lavatory and bathtub or shower;
- The unit shall have electrical or gas, water, and d sewer service;
- The unit shall contain a separate closet.
- The unit shall have a minimum ceiling height of seven feet six inches.
- The unit shall have heating facilities capable of maintaining a room temperature of 70 degrees at a point three feet above the floor.

2. The entrance to the subordinate unit is located on the lot in a place that does not encroach into required setbacks and result in adverse impacts on the private living spaces on adjoining properties.

3. There is at least one off-street parking space on the property.

4. The cumulative impact of the number of subordinate dwelling units in the immediate neighborhood does not adversely impact the neighborhood character through excessive on-street parking and noise.

5. Only one subordinate unit shall be allowed on any singlefamily building site.

D. IMPROVEMENTS TO PERMITTED SUBORDINATE UNITS

1. Subordinate units that have been permitted by the provisions of this chapter may be improved and enlarged under the following standards:

- No detached subordinate unit located on a building site of less than 6,000 square feet may be enlarged or increased in size;
- All construction shall meet the standards and requirements for residential dwelling units as established in Chapter 17.24 of the Land Use Code;
- No construction to improve or enlarge a subordinate unit with a nonconformity shall increase a nonconformity;
- One off-street parking space meeting all setback requirements shall be provided for each dwelling unit on the site;
- No detached subordinate unit shall exceed 400 square feet in size.
- The unit shall comply with all other standards previously met under Section 17.24.130.C.

2. Whenever more than 50% of the value of the physical improvements on a property containing a subordinate unit are demolished, the subordinate unit permit is revoked and the property shall be re-established with only a single family-unit.

E. UNREGISTERED SUBORDINATE UNITS:

1. With the exception of those units qualifying under Section 17.24.030.G, all subordinate units that are not registered and authorized through issuance of a permit shall become illegal upon the termination of the 180-day registration period. All illegal units shall be subject to the enforcement procedures under Section 17.52 of the Land Use Code.

F. SUBORDINATE UNITS BASED ON HARDSHIP CONDITIONS

1. New subordinate units, that did not exist on or before 5 April 1988, as defined in Section 17.24.030, may be established upon approval of a use permit for a recognized hardship, but only so long as the hardship exists. A hardship is based on an infirm or handicapped person who finds it necessary to live with or near a companion under conditions where separate, self-contained facilities are important to both parties.

2. Subordinate units based on a hardship shall be considered under the following standards:

- All minimum standards applied to existing units as required in Section 17.24.130.C;
- New construction shall meet the standards and requirements for residential dwelling units as established in Chapter 17.24 of the Land Use Code;
- No detached unit shall exceed 400 square feet in size;
- Existing floor space may be used to establish the subordinate unit where the coverage and floor-area was legal at the time of construction;
- One off-street parking space meeting all setback requirements is provided for each dwelling unit on the site;
- All new subordinate units, located on lots less than 6,000 square feet in area, must be attached to the primary dwelling, provide interaccessibility, and must be designed to facilitate conversion from a subordinate unit to living space of the primary dwelling upon termination of the hardship;

3. New subordinate units established on lots of 6,000 square feet or greater may be attached or detached. Detached units must be designed to facilitate conversion to a guesthouse, conforming to all standards for guesthouses upon termination of the hardship. Attached units shall meet the standards of subsection 2.f, above;

h. Documentation or evidence submitted into the record that a hardship exists to justify the subordinate unit;

i. Use permits shall be issued for a specified time period based on the anticipated length of the hardship.

3. A use permit for a new subordinate unit for a hardship condition shall require a public hearing before the Planning Commission, after legal notice is provided by publication in the newspaper, posting on the property and to property owners within two hundred feet of the property.

4. A permit issued for a new subordinate unit based on hardship shall be subject to an annual review by the Planning Commission to ensure that all conditions for the hardship still exist. The permit shall be void upon the termination of the hardship condition. In granting such permits the Planning Commission shall adopt findings documenting the basis of the hardship. Upon the finding that the basis for the hardship no longer exists, the subordinate unit shall be converted to a guesthouse if detached or primary dwelling space if attached and shall thereafter cease to be used as a subordinate unit.

SECTION TWO The following sections of the Municipal Code are amended as follows (except for title, new sections are underlined):

17.04.020 ACCESSORY BUILDING: "Accessory building" means a detached subordinate building, or a subordinate portion of the main building or any combination thereof, used as a playhouse, woodshed, storeroom, laundry, private garage, subordinate unit or workshop.

17.04.270 Dwelling, SINGLE-FAMILY. "Dwelling, singlefamily" means any building containing one or more habitable rooms with facilities for living, sleeping, cooking and eating.

17.04.390 Kitchen. "Kitchen" means any room or any part of which is designed, built, equipped, used or intended to be used for the preparation of food and the washing of dishes, or either of them, whether or not said room contains a cookstove or any other cooking appliance; provided, however, that in a main dwelling, a dining room or an alcove adjacent to a dining room or kitchen and in which toasters, grills, percolators and similar appliances are used, shall not be deemed a kitchen. It is the intent of this definition to make it possible to prevent the cooking or preparation of meals in, or the erection of, what to all intents and purposes is a kitchen in a guesthouse, when such is prohibited, or in any other living space which is not a legally established subordinate unit.

17.24.090 Single-Family Residential Dwellings

B. Interaccessibility. With the exception of subordinate units registered pursuant to Section 17.24.130, all portions of a single-family dwelling used or designed and intended as a place for human habitation are required to have complete interaccessibility between all of its parts in a normal manner without passing through a garage or a private room, such as a bedroom or bathroom.

17.24.120 Off-Street Parking Requirements With the exception of subordinate units registered pursuant to Section 17.24.130.C, parking shall be required for each habitable structure within the residential district. Each parking space shall be provided by means of a carport, garage or parking pad measuring ten feet by twenty feet with adequate ingress and egress provided by means of a driveway.

SECTION THREE: The following sections of the Municipal Code are deleted in their entirety:

17.24.090 D KITCHENS. It shall be unlawful to construct maintain or use more than one kitchen on any building site.

17.24.090 E CLOTHING WASHING FACILITIES. It shall be unlawful to construct or install a second clothes washing facility on any building site after August 10, 1972.

SECTION FOUR: Violations. Any person, firm or corporation, whether as principal or agent, employed or otherwise, violating or causing or permitting the violation of the provisions of this ordinance is guilty of an infraction. Any part of any building erected contrary to the provisions of this ordinance is hereby declared to be unlawful and a public nuisance and the City Attorney shall, upon order of the City Council, immediately commence action for the abatement or removal thereof. Should any person, firm or corporation violate the terms of this ordinance and any action is authorized by the City Council or the City Attorney or is in fact filed for said violations, no other action shall be taken on any application filed by or on behalf of said person, firm or corporation until the litigation has been resolved.

SECTION FIVE: Severability. If any part of this ordinance is found to be unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

SECTION SIX: Effective Date. The ordinance shall take effect 30 days after final adoption. Any application not yet approved upon the effective date of this ordinance shall be reviewed under the terms of this ordinance. Any application approved prior to the effective date of this ordinance shall be allowed to continue through normal permit processes and project completion. The 180-day registration period established by this ordinance shall commence on 5 July 1991, and the final registration day shall be 2 January 1992.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea this 4th day of June, 1991, by the following roll call vote:
